Hunmanity and $1,000,000 Women Spend 52 Billions. 1,000,000 Tons of Paper. Income Tax Refunds.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

L. N. LITTAUER gives $1,000,000 "to humanity."

Humanity is big, $1,000,000 is small. Mr. Littauer's gift would amount to about one-sixteenth of a cent for each for all human beings on earth. That shows the futility of any plan to "divide wealth."

ONE MILLION, kept together, wisely used, might be useful. But, on the whole, earth's sixteen hundred million human beings must work out their own problems. Nobody's $1,000,000 can help much.

MRS. SIPPEL, head of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, says women do nine-tenths of the buying, spending about fifty-two thousand million dollars each year. That's important advertisers.

THE fact that women spend fifty-two billions a year should make every advertiser keep in the back of his head the question, "what do women want?" whether he sells automobiles or neckties.

WHEN Seward bought Alaska for $8,000,000 he got a bargain. The Department of Agriculture says Alaska's forests can yield every year, forever, 1,500,000 cords of pulpwood, enough for 1,000,000 tons of newsprint paper. That means $50,000,000 a year, at 2½ cents a pound, which is about what paper ought to cost.

"VAST forests of pulpwood in the Tongash national forest are to be managed by the government for never-ending production of timber," says the report.

With tidewater transportation and plenty of water power in Alaska, the country need not depend on Canada for newsprint.

Conservative publishers may feel differently about government ownership and management when it concerns their own newsprint supply.

ANYBODY excited because the United States returns income taxes illegally assessed, or collected, may be comforted by FACTS.

All refunds and abatements made by the Treasury amount to only two and a quarter per cent of total receipts. Furthermore, refunds made in accordance with the law, and often based on court decisions, equal ONLY TWENTY-FOUR PER CENT OF ADDITIONAL INCOME TAX ASSESSMENTS LAID AND COLLECTED.

IN OTHER words, for every dollar given back by the government, or credited on payments due, the government collects four dollars from individuals that did not pay enough.

THE Treasury is compelled to make refunds when it collects taxes illegally, or improperly. The government cannot steal even from the steel trust and cannot ignore court decisions.

As to the delay in adjustments on income tax matters, it should be remembered that in connection with big corporations it is necessary to inspect plants all over the country. Documents in one single case may involve typewriting tens of thousands of papers.

A BILL in Indiana's Senate suggests "flogging for male criminals who carry weapons while committing crime."

Strokes would be "administered to the bare back, well laid on," and punishment graduated up to SIXTY LASHES.

WHY not have criminals, operating with or without weapons, put to work for ten or twenty years. Pay them for work, let them accumulate money, and, except in cases of murder, release them after time has convinced them that work and saving are worth while. If a man knew that crime meant twenty years hard work against his will, he might try work of his own accord.

PHILADELPHIA experiments show that motor buses can be operated with oil in place of gasoline. A New Zealander came from the other side of the earth with the invention.

This means that the companies owning most oil in the ground may be the best oil companies. Make a memorandum of it, if you buy oil stocks.

PLEASANT day in Wall Street yesterday, more than four and a quarter million shares sold, United States Steel going to a new high price, above $180. Allowing for 40 per cent distribution of stock, that would make $252, the price of stock that Andrew Carnegie once called "not even water." You can't tell how things will develop in the United States with time and attention. Don't sell short.

FIGURES grow rapidly. Seven New York banks and trust companies now have about six billions of deposits, equalling two-thirds of the deposits in all the banks of the United States in 1903.

CHINA, with almost as many problems as she has inhabitants, decides to cut her army in two, leaving ONLY 715,000 fighting men to be fed by others, ONLY 40 per cent of the nation's total revenue is to be spent for military expenses.

If those 715,000 men could be put to work raising food for the starving, and 40 per cent of nations' revenue devoted to the same starving, that would probably please the ghost of old Confucius.

JAWORSKI REFUSES PRIEST

By SHELDON REED.
Staff Correspondent.

ROCKVIEW PENITENTIARY, BELLEFONTE, Pa., Jan. 19.—Paul Jaworski, who is doomed to die in the electric chair on Monday, refused spiritual guidance today.

"There's a priest here to see you, Paul," Warden W. J. McFarland told the bandit-killer who was once a choir singer."

"Nothin' doin!" Paul shook his head.

The priest was the Rev. P. A. McCreish, of Johnstown.

Nevertheless, Jaworski was in quiet good humor today. He slept soundly through the night and he ate a light breakfast. Three guards stood over him to guard against possible attempts at suicide.

SISTER AWAITED

In the steel-trapped death house, just 12 steps from the chair, the erstwhile leader of the Flathead Mob was expected to have one visitor before he walked the fatal dozen paces—his sister, Catherine Lucille Logan, of Detroit.

Deputy Warden W. J. McFarland announced that Mrs. Logan had telegraphed a plea that she be allowed to see Paul. Permission was granted.

Deputy Warden McFarland said that in his experience no prisoner condemned to death had been so calm. The death chair was ready for Jaworski 48 hours before his scheduled execution.

Meanwhile Jaworski is alone. Only guards are permitted to see him. Prison attaches take food to him but do not converse with him.

ASKS NO FAVORS

At supper last night and at breakfast this morning guards found him lying in his bunk. He asked no favors and received none.

Jaworski will be the one hundred and second slayer to receive the death penalty under Pennsylvania's electrocution law.

Paul will not die alone. Deputy Warden W. J. McFarland announced today that a few minutes after the leader of the Flathead Mob goes to death he will be followed by Calvin James, of Bucks County, sentenced to die for the murder of W. H. Dunstan and his wife's two uncles.

JARDINE TO STAY IN CABINET

By GEORGE R. HOLMES.
International News Service.
(Copyright, 1929, By International News Service.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—William M. Jardine, target for the farm bloc through two sessions of Congress, is to carry over into the new Hoover administration as secretary of agriculture under present plans, it was learned authoritatively here today.

The matter of his retaining his present post has been discussed by the President-elect and the Kansan at several conferences, and the latter has agreed to remain, barring unforseen circumstances arising between now and March 4.

SECOND TO STAY

Thus it appears that two members of the present Coolidge cabinet will succeed themselves in the new administration — Jardine as head of the Department of Agriculture, and Andrew W. Mellon as Secretary of the Treasury. It is considered doubtful if any other members of the present cabinet will remain, although if Mr. Hoover runs into any difficulties in reconciling cabinet aspirations he may find it expedient to carry on temporarily with some of the Coolidge material.

The retention of Secretary Jardine has not been altogether unexpected by close observers here. The Kansan came into the Coolidge cabinet in 1925 with Mr. Hoover's indorsement. Whether Secretary Jardine has agreed to carry on indefinitely is not known, but it is accounted as certain that he will stay until the new administration is fully launched on its agricultural policy, which may be a year or longer.

HOOVER GOING SOUTH

Mr. Hoover wound up two weeks of conferences in the capital today. Early Monday he leaves for Florida for rest, relaxation, fishing—and reflection upon the further selection of his official family. He has exactly six weeks from the time of his departure for the South until he is inaugurated. Four weeks of that time certainly will be spent in Florida, perhaps more, although he is credited with a desire to return to the capital sufficiently in advance of March 4 to permit additional conferences.

SOPHIE I. LOEB DIES, HONORED IN TUBE CITY

Memorial exercises for Sophie Irene Loeb, newspaper woman and widely known welfare worker, who died in New York last night, will be held in McKeesport, her childhood home. Announcement was made by Mayor George H. Lysle, of McKeesport, that he had called a conference with City Council to take action honoring the memory and philanthropic services of their distinguished townswoman. Death was caused by complications following an operation for appendicitis.

Because of her great number of friends and associates in welfare work here, it was declared that the movement of McKeesport to pay respect to her memory would mean a county-wide observance. She began her newspaper work in McKeesport, and later, on the Pittsburgh Sunday Gazette, gathered around her a group of associates who encouraged her for the successful at-

GIANNINI AIDING JOHN D.

International News Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 19.—A. P. Giannini, head of the Bank of Italy, today was allied with John D. Rockefeller, Jr., in the latter's attempt to oust Col. Robert W. Stewart as chairman of the board of directors of Standard Oil of Indiana. Proxies for 32,000 shares of the Indiana company's stock will be turned over to Rockefeller, it was announced.

By W. S. COUSINS.
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—Big block stockholders of Indiana Standard Oil probably will hold the balance of power in the now famous fight between young John D. Rockefeller and Col. Robert W. Stewart. This seemed to be the unanimous opinion of Wall street observers today.

The "little fellows"—holders of just a few shares of the outstanding 9,236,000—won't count very much when it comes to the actual battle of proxies on March 17.

A comparatively few banks, trust companies and large estates hold Standard Oil of Indiana in large blocks. On the face of things now, Rockefeller appears to have the edge. It is generally believed that Stewart has the sympathy of the "little fellows."

Stewart, big of frame, ruddy of face and confident in his manner, had spent a strenuous 24 hours in

FLOOD NOW UNLIKELY IN CITY

Loosed by the breaking of a huge gorge in the Allegheny River above Kittanning, early today, a rush of water that routed scores of families and wrought much damage in the upper valley descended on Pittsburgh.

A stage of between 24 feet and the flood mark of 25 was predicted by late afternoon.

The rise in the rivers was at the rate of one foot an hour during the day. After the crest is reached the streams will fall rapidly. Forecaster W. S. Brotzman said, as the sudden rise was due entirely to the gorge giving way.

The Allegheny was filled with ice and the swift rise caught rivermen unaware. The flood stage here is 25 feet, and the city most probably will escape overflow.

At Kittanning, the low-lying districts were menaced by the mounting waters which backed up to a 20-foot stage before the huge pack gave way. The fire siren was sounded at 4 a. m. and a hose company was dispatched to McGrann to aid in getting people from their homes.

Another call for help sent Ford City firemen to Rosston where the village was flooded with heavy loss. The water was up to the second floor of many homes. Fifteen members of the fire department with boats aided in getting residents out of their homes. One sick woman, Mrs. E. Christman, had to be removed on her bed.

Shortly after midnight a gasoline tank of the Rosston general store was crushed by the ice and the gasoline floating on the flood waters added to the danger.

Scores of automobiles were caught in Rosston garages and covered with water. Many people lost their household goods, as the sudden rise gave them no opportunity to carry them out.

From 2:30 to 2:45 a. m. the river rose more than seven feet at Ford City.

Parts of the plant of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, at Ford City were flooded and the plant had to be closed down today.

As the wall of water loosed by the breaking gorge swept downstream, highways were inundated within the space of half an hour, cellars were flooded and fear spread through the valley.

The sudden rise here caught many automobile owners unaware. Scores of cars parked along the Monongahela wharf were partly submerged.

The crest of the rise will be of short duration. Forecaster Brotzman said. Colder weather with snow is predicted.

FAYETTE J. TYRRELL

Tyrrell, attorney who shot and killed Philip F. Clark in a Munhall church as services were about to start on a Sunday last May, today in Criminal Court was sentenced to 10 to 20 years' imprisonment.

NEW TRIAL REFUSED CHURCH SLAYER

A sentence of 10 to 20 years in the Western Penitentiary was today imposed upon Attorney Fayette J. Tyrrell, convicted of second degree murder for killing Philip F. Clark in the First Christian Church of Munhall on a Sunday morning last May.

Judge Robert J. Stotz, of Easton, Northampton County, trial judge, before imposing sentence in Criminal Court, handed down an order refusing a new trial.

APPEAL PLANNED

Attorney William H. Coleman, counsel for Tyrrell, immediately announced that he would appeal the judgment to the State Supreme Court and also ask the court to allow Tyrrell his liberty on bail pending final disposition.

The sentence is the maximum allowed and in pronouncing penalty, Judge Stotz said to Tyrrell:

"You are very fortunate. The jury would have been warranted in bringing in a verdict of first-degree murder. You killed Clark, wilfully and premeditatedly."

WIFE UNAFFECTED

The color left the already paled face of the prisoner as he heard the sentence. He made an involuntary motion with his hands. His wife was not visibly affected. The murdered man's father, Robert Clark, sat in the row in front of her.

Before he was taken over the Bridge of Sighs Tyrrell was allowed a few minutes in private with his wife and son.

Sunday school superintendent, father of six children, lawyer, Tyrrell quit those roles on Sunday morning, May 13, for a berth in the county jail.

The defense he offered for killing the Homestead millworker was—self-defense. But the prosecution put a different interpretation on the facts. Assistant District Attorney John Haggerty argued that Tyrrell came to church on that date—Mothers' Day it was—intent on murder, incensed that Clark had charged before the church board of deacons that he, Tyrrell, was not

NEWEST MAKES OF CARS AT AUTO SHOW

Pittsburgh's 1929 automobile show, with a display of about 200 models of 39 makes of motor cars, in Motor Square Garden, Baum boulevard and Beatty street, was to open at 1 o'clock this afternoon. Formal opening ceremonies will be staged at 8 o'clock tonight, when J. R. Pierpoint, president of the Pittsburgh Automobile Dealers' Association, under whose auspices the show is being held, will address the show visitors.

One of the most elaborate decorative effects ever arranged for an automobile show provides a colorful setting for the many-hued motor cars. Hangings of desert scenes add an attractiveness to the display that has been lacking in other years, and Egyptian streamers and banners and stands are hung from the ceiling and stand about the floor.

The Silver Masked Tenor and the Silvertown Cord Orchestra have come to Pittsburgh to provide the entertainment program for the show. They are to be heard twice daily during the show, which continues each afternoon and night of

Lillian Gish Sued Again by Duell

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 19.—(AP.)—A war of damage suits, in which Lillian Gish, motion picture actress, and Charles H. Duell, film producer and at one time her finance, have been engaged for more than two years, has been resumed here. Duell filed two suits for a total of $22,578 against Miss Gish in Superior Court. The suit asks the return of money he claims to have advanced for Miss Gish. More than two years ago Duell asked $5,000,000 damages from Miss Gish and a motion picture company then employing her, for breach of contract, but the complaint was thrown out.

DAWES DORMITORY BURNS, SON HAS NARROW ESCAPE

LAWRENCEVILLE, N. J., Jan. 19.—(AP.)—Dawes House, the largest dormitory at Lawrenceville School, was destroyed early this morning in a spectacular fire that sent students fleeing for their lives.

The dormitory, a rambling frame structure, donated to the famous preparatory school by Vice President Charles G. Dawes, housed 42 students, three masters and three servants. Boys sleeping in the second story were roused just in time to escape. Among them was Dana Dawes, a son of the Vice President.

Sylvan Schlopp, occupying quarters on the first floor, was awakened by the roar of flames, and ran through the building shouting an alarm.

The flames were menacingly close when the boys on the second floor were awakened by his calls. The stairways were spouting flames. The windows offered the only way of escape, with a long jump to the ground. Some of the boys formed human chains by holding onto each others hands and feet, and many escaped by climbing down the backs of their companions. Others leaped to the ground.

The loss exceeded $75,000.

CIVIL SERVICE BOARD PONDERS LIVINGSTON OUSTER APPEAL

RACKETEER CASES UP TUESDAY

Attaches of the district attorney's office were busy today arranging for the trials of the alleged grafters and racketeers who pleaded guilty last week. The first of the trials is set for next Tuesday, and the trials will continue daily until the cases of all the 49 who decided to stand trial have been disposed of, District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner said this morning.

George Burnside, Michael Connelly and Harry Klein will be the first to go on trial. They are charged with maintaining gambling devices. The following day Happy Butler and E. J. Kantner will be arraigned on similar charges.

On Thursday Justice of the Peace Wallace L. Baker, of Bellevue, and his constable, E. V. Stokes, are to be tried on charges of extortion [illegible] spiracy to extort. Several who were fined by Baker [illegible] are alleged to have had [illegible] shines returned to them by him after the hearings, are to be witnesses, Gardner said. John Lang charged with maintaining and operating gambling devices, also is scheduled for trial Thursday.

Paddy Meenan and Harry Rothman will be tried Friday for illegal liquor selling. The first week's schedule will keep the district attorney and his assistants busy as, in addition to the trials, there are several hearings to to be held by Alderman Thomas Jones for persons recommended for indictment by the special grand jury. Instead of having indictments returned against the defendants, Gardner had them named in warrants sworn out before Jones.

Tom, Sam, Gus and Mickey Meyers, brothers of the South Side, are to be arraigned before the Alderman on charges of conspiracy to violate the dry laws. This is one of the important cases uncovered by the grand jury, Gardner said. Assistant District Attorney George F. P. Langfitt will represent the prosecution.

tack which she made against social and labor problems.

LOWERS CAB FARES

Miss Loeb went to New York determined to correct some of the economic evils which she declared were responsible for much of the suffering of the people. Her success was instant. First she attacked the taxicab fares and the newspapers "played up" her campaign for a reform and equalization of the fares, with the result that New York's taxicab charges are among the lowest in the country. Born in Russia, the daughter of a watchmaker who immigrated to America when Sophie was six years old, she was familiar with the struggles of the working classes. Her father settled in McKeesport and the girl on her graduation from the McKeesport High School, began writing for the local newspapers.

"The widowed mother should be supported by the state in her efforts to rear her children in her own home," declared Sophie Irene Loeb in 1907. "It is a criminal thing to break up a home when the father dies. The future of humanity and the welfare of the community demand that the mother rear her own offspring."

WITH NATIONS' LEAGUE

This was the clarion call launching the nation-wide mothers' pension movement.

In 1927 she was invited to sit with the social service section of the League of Nations at Geneva to frame an international code for the care of dependent and afflicted children.

Among her many other activities she helped to bring about penny lunches in the New York City schools; laws requiring motion picture houses to be sanitary and fireproof, and the bonding of taxicab drivers.

She leaves two brothers, A. H. Simon, a McKeesport attorney, and I. A. Simon, of Pittsburgh. Aline MacMahon, a niece, is a well-known actress. The funeral services will be held in New York.

Weather Conditions.

The low, yesterday over Kansas and Missouri, was central over Ohio last night, and is now disappearing down the St. Lawrence valley, having caused rain and high winds in its path. It is being followed by relatively high pressure, central off the North Pacific coast, but extending in a ridge to the Central Mississippi valley and thence southeastward to the South Atlantic coast, with the highest pressure at Kamloops, B. C., 30.44. Another low appears over Colorado and Southern Utah, 29.56, at Denver. Temperatures have fallen in the central valleys, Plains states, Rocky Mountains and the Canadian Northwest.

River Conditions.

The ice in the upper rivers is moving out. The Allegheny reached high stages at several points due to the ice gorges. Stage at Pittsburgh is 16.5 feet, rising rapidly. Between 24 and 25 foot stage is expected at Pittsburgh this afternoon.

NEWS DEALERS TELL 'WHYS' OF ROUTE WAR

Why numerous news dealers recently elected to handle the Sun-Telegraph alone, of the Pittsburgh evening and Sunday papers, is set forth in an article in the Wilkinsburg Progress. A statement by news dealers of that district is published, in which they say, under the caption 'The Correct Story of the Pittsburgh Newspaper Argument":

"More than 40 years ago the present system of distribution of Pittsburgh newspapers was established in this district by a boy selling papers and working up a regular list of subscribers and sales. When that boy tired of the job or got a better job he sold his route for a sum of money to another boy or a man, with the sanction of the particular paper concerned.

BUSINESS VALUABLE

"As the various communities have grown and the routes have been built up, they have been bought and sold as any mercantile business. Until two years ago routes were worth, depending on the location and size, from a few hundred to as high as $35,000, and have been transferred from one owner to another at these figures, always with the consent of the paper concerned.

"Several of your local business men, viz., the Brushton News Company, Kiser Brothers, Swissvale News Company and West Side News Company, have owned and operated successfully for many years routes in this community. Each of these routes represents an original investment of many thousands of dollars and years of faithful service. Over these years they have employed thousands of boys, who as a rule have been contented and happy in their jobs. These men have endeavored at all times to treat their boys fairly and to inculcate in them a spirit of service and fair dealing. All of these men have been in business long enough to see a number of these boys grow into manhood and most useful citizenship.

UNREST CREATED

"During the past year one of the Pittsburgh papers has, by various tactics, created such an unrest among all the agents in the entire Pittsburgh district that a vast majority of these agents, including the aforementioned agents, have been forced to the conclusion that this paper intends, one by one, to take over every agency by one pretext or another. Consequently, on January 10, at a regularly called meeting of these agents, it was unanimously decided to sell and deliver the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette in the morning, the Sun-Telegraph in the evening, and the Sun-Telegraph on Sunday.

"You can lend your moral support to your fellow citizens and the newsboys employed by them by buying and reading these Pittsburgh newspapers."

TEST DRY LAW, SAYS NORRIS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—One of the country's most ardent drys, Senator Norris (R.), of Nebraska, is on record in the Senate as favoring dry modification if the law can't be enforced.

"Before we talk of modification or repeal, speaking as one who believes in prohibition, all of us ought to unite in the proposition that a fair attempt be made to enforce the law," Norris declared. "If, after a reasonable period, we see that conditions do not improve, then we ought to amend or change the law if the conditions show a change is needed."

The statement was a feature of a prohibition row that rocked both houses of Congress yesterday.

Norris criticized Secretary Mellon's letter this week to Senator Warren (R.), of Wyoming, in which the writer said that a country-wide survey first should be made before $25,000,000 more for enforcement was appropriated.

"The results of eight years of enforcement by the head of the Treasury Department convince me he should not be the active head of enforcement," said the Nebraskan.

NEW CARS AT AUTO SHOW

next week. The musical programs are to be broadcast by WJAS.

Styles in the motor cars have changed radically during the last year. Nineteen twenty-eight saw a marked return to the use of curves by the automotive world, offering visual evidence that feminine modes are the guide for motor car fashions.

BUYER GETS MORE

This return to curves has had a distinct advantage to car buyers. It has permitted more roominess in bodies, it has allowed more perfectly fitting fenders, resulting in turn in less dirt being thrown on the more delicate parts of the car's finish. It has simplified construction and has increased the accessibility of inspection and maintenance service.

Motors of the new cars are more powerful, brakes are better, springs and spring shackles have been redesigned to eliminate wheel "shimmy," and lubrication systems have been improved. There has been an increase in the number of cars using the four-speed transmission and engines of the eight-cylinder type are more numerous.

HAPPY, LOYAL NEWSBOYS CHEER SUN-TELEGRAPH

Rousing demonstrations of loyalty to news dealers who handled no other Pittsburgh evening or Sunday paper except the Sun-Telegraph were given at meetings of newsboys in Wilkinsburg and Lawrenceville last night.

Indignantly they spurned the suggestion that newsboys had been unable to make a fair profit—that they required some special new kind of "protection." Almost all the boys, it developed, had bank accounts. Some mentioned they were carrying shares in building and loan associations as well.

"But don't think," said Paul Elliott, of 319 West street, Wilkinsburg, a freshman in the Junior High School, "that because I put a dollar a week into a Christmas savings fund, and a dollar a week into the school bank, and have building and loan stock, I have no spending money left."

TIME FOR FUN

At both meetings the boys agreed unanimously that they were not to be pitied. They resented the very suggestion.

Did they have time for fun?

"Plenty of it," was the answer.

"Ever go to the movies?"

"Oh, boy! You should have seen the show last night," the Lawrenceville crowd chorused. It seemed that all had seen it.

At the Lawrenceville meeting, held in the home of Richard Kumer, of Kumer & O'Connor, news dealers at 5240 Butler street, the youngsters gorged on candy and soda pop. Stirring speeches were made. Then some one proposed three cheers for the Sun-Telegraph. They were given lustily, while some of the youngsters, specially talented, thrust fingers into their mouths and whistled shrilly in their enthusiasm.

Sturdy, manly little fellows, with intelligence and character shining from their bright faces, the boys at these meetings represented the very cream of their profession. Sun-Telegraph newsboys are mostly school boys, with permenent homes in the communities that they serve, and possessed of civic pride. There were no drifters, no ragamuffins, at last night's gatherings.

THRIFT ENCOURAGED

The Wilkinsburg meeting was held at the store of the West Side News Company, 603 Trenton avenue. To encourage thrift, J. E. McCullough, head of the company, announced that it would give $5 to every boy who deposited $25 in a savings' account between now and December 15. All said they would do it.

Then the question arose how many of the youngsters already had bank accounts. Of the 29 there, all but one, said they had money on deposit, drawing interest, and the single exception declared he would soon be a bank depositor, too.

Three of the boys reported they had building and loan shares. They are Paul Elliott, Drew Farnsworth, 828 East End avenue, and Paul Dunham, 1219 South Braddock avenue.

Twenty of the 26 boys at the Lawrenceville meeting said they had bank accounts. Four have saved over $100 each out of their earnings of the last three years—money that they made selling and delivering papers after school.

WELL SATISFIED

How well satisfied these boys have been with the treatment they received was shown by the records of brothers who have turned their business over to younger members of the family as they grew older. Thus Joseph Hudak, 20, of 5404 Carnegie avenue, transferred his route to his brother, Stephen, now 17, and Stephen in turn passed it on to John, 14.

Francis Duffy, 18, and Clarence Duffy, 17, of 5206 Carnegie avenue, now students at Duquesne University, have turned their routes over to their brothers, Kenneth, 14, and Clyde, 10.

TYRRELL GETS 10 TO 20 YRS.

fit to conduct a Sunday school class.

Haggerty described Tyrrell striding determinedly down an aisle of the church just before services were to start, seeing Clark in the rear corridor and firing several shots into him.

Tyrrell's story differed. He saw his enemy Clark flash something in his right hand which he thought was a revolver. It was one revolver against another, Tyrrell felt, so he fired first. It was never proved that Clark had a revolver in his hand; the state said rather than a revolver it was a pair of spectacles.

WIDOW WITNESS

Tyrrell's ace witness was Clark's widow! She told of threats Clark had made to her on Tyrrell's life, of the difficulties of living with her husband.

The prosecution tried to show that a strong friendship existed between the 52-year-old Tyrrell and Clark's young, comely wife. It emphasized that Mrs. Clark had several times worked as stenographer in Tyrrell's office.

But these attempts of the state failed to impress Tyrrell's own wife. She "stood by" her husband and "stood up" for Mrs. Clark. During the trial the two women sat side by side in commiseration, one a widow, the other separated by steel bars from her husband.

MAYOR FAILS TO ATTEND HEARING

The Civil Service Commission today is reviewing testimony submitted at a hearing yesterday on an appeal from Mayor Charles H. Kline's "good of the service" reason for discharging Murray G. Livingston as chief inspector of weights and measures. Decision will be announced later.

The commission waited in vain for Mayor Kline, who had announced an intention of attending the hearing.

The commission was represented by its full membership—Dr. F. H. Frederick, president; Dr. F. C. Blessing, Attorney J. Howard Devlin and Secretary James C. Smith. Attorney William J. Connelley, assistant city solicitor, was counsel for the commission and City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt was present to "see that the hearing was conducted legally," according to his statement after the hearing.

LIVINGSTON PRESENT

Livingston was present, as well as his attorney, Charles B. Prichard.

Waldschmidt reviewed Livingston's petition for a hearing and laid emphasis on a clause which stated that Livingston was informed and expected to prove the discharge was for political reasons. Waldschmidt challenged Prichard to produce testimony supporting that allegation. None was presented.

No reference was made to Livingston's testimony before the commission some time ago that A. L. Nolan, an inspector of weights and measures, was discharged by Mayor Kline for political reasons. Nolan was reinstated later on orders from the commission.

Dr. Frederick asked Prichard if there was any basis for the allegation that Livingston was discharged for a political reason.

WANTS MAYOR PRESENT

Prichard said "no," but explained the allegation was made on an assumption based on the absence of any other explicit reason. He said that in defending himself, Livingston faced the problem of presenting a reason that existed only in Mayor Kline's mind.

Prichard said he would like to have Mayor Kline present to answer questions.

"If he can give one sound reason to sustain the 'good of the service' phrase we will meet it," Prichard declared. He pointed out that no allegations of corruption, negligence, incompetence or disability had been made in any communication from the Mayor in relation to Livingston's discharge.

Prichard futilly demanded explicit reasons and quoted law to prove that "just cause" must be given in writing to a discharged employe protected by civil service rules.

Devlin observed that the burden rested upon Livingston to prove the absence of "just cause."

QUIZ BRINGS OBJECTIONS

Waldschmidt, sustained by Dr. Frederick, objected to most of Prichard's questions variously as "incompetent, irrelevant, immaterial, grossly impertinent and leading."

Prichard declared a matter of principle affecting more than 5,000 city employes was involved in the commission's decision and warned it to avoid appearing in an unfavorable light before the public by taking a stand that might be interpreted as arbitrary.

"We don't care about that, as we will be governed by the merits of the case," Dr. Frederick said.

After the hearing adjourned, Charles Painter, a spectator, warned the commission not to flaunt public opinion.

New York and planned to return to Chicago today, he said.

STEWART NOT BUYING

He talked freely but denied emphatically that he had told any one he was "able to beat Rockefeller."

"I am keeping personalities out of this," he remarked. "My trip to New York was solely in the interest of important internal affairs of the company, and in no way connected with the canvass of proxies.

"I am not at all interested in the Wall Street side of this campaign nor am I buying a share of stock of Standard Oil of Indiana. It is very gratifying that all who are associated with me in a business way are solidly behind me at this critical time.

Col. Stewart said he had read in a newspaper that John D. Rockefeller, Sr., was opposed to him.

"I don't believe it," he declared. "And I won't believe it until I see positive proof. I have been associated with the elder Mr. Rockefeller for 25 years, and have given him loyal support. He has never intimated to me that he was dissatisfied with my conduct, and I don't believe he ever will."

This plan was approved by the committee. Thomas H. Reed, a member of the commission, suggested the plan which was praised by Dr. R. R. Huggins, chairman of the committee and dean of the University of Pittsburgh Medical School.

The committee had been asked to meet with the Commission, which is seeking advice on a health agency to function under the Metropolitan system.

HOOVER'S PLAN IN N. Y. STUDIED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—(A.P.)—Political Washington sat back today to observe the working out of the rather novel experiment President-elect Hoover is undertaking in New York State by placing direction of affairs of the Republican party there in the hands of three men. Diametrically opposed predictions as to the outcome were made.

Most political observers seemed to be agreed that this presages action along similiar lines in other states where friction has developed and in some of the Southern states where strengthening of the organizations of his party is especially desired by the President-elect.

Friends and associates of Mr. Hoover confidently asserted that greater harmony among individual leaders in New York would result from the naming of H. Edmond Machold, state chairman; Charles D. Hilles, national committeeman, and former Representative William H. Hill as a sort of triumvirate in control of party machinery and especially of Federal patronage.

IMPEACHMENT CHARGES VOTED, GOVERNOR FIRM

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 19.—(A.P.)—Gov. Henry S. Johnston today awaited action of the state Senate on five charges of impeachment voted against him by members of the state Legislature in a night session that lasted until early today, and climaxed a hectic week of political battling.

Five additional charges brought before the House of Representatives by its investigating committee, remain to be acted upon when the House reconvenes at 1:30 p. m. Monday.

The Senate, the constituted court of impeachment, likewise was in adjournment today until Monday afternoon, making impossible before then action on the House Committee's request that Gov. Johnston be immediately suspended from office.

The articles of impeachment voted by the House are based on the issuance of deficiency certificates to the State Banking Department and the state issues commission where no appropriations were made by the last Legislature, and upon the alleged diversion and misappropriation of funds paid to Buck Eldridge, special agent for the Goverhor.

All carry the charge that the Governor "became, was and is guilty of wilful neglect of duty, malfeasance, incompetency, corruption in office and offenses involving moral turpitude committed by him while in office, contrary to the constitution and laws of the state of Oklahoma."

Gov. Johnston, charged House members with insincerity in voting the charges against him.

"Not a one of them thinks that I am guilty," he said. "Some men voted for the impeachment articles who know better. That may be the way to play politics, but it is a type of politics with which I never have become familiar, and do not intend to learn."

He declared he would not resign from office, and said he had not formed any plan for retaining defense counsel.

$500,000 GONE, HEIR SUICIDE

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—(A.P.)—E. C. Underwood, who killed himself by swallowing poison yesterday, is believed by police to have been a son of the late B. D. Underwood, one of the founders of the typewriter company bearing that name.

Mrs. Ida Underwood Goshert, Chicago, said she was a sister of E. C. Underwood, and that her brother and his family had been estranged. She declined to attempt identification of the dead man.

The body was found in a low-price hotel just outside the loop. Underwood had scribbled several notes, one listing "my nearest relatives," and another giving "reasons: very discouraged over business reverses; all money lost; unable to get a job at any price."

Police were told Underwood had inherited more than $500,000 and had squandered it the last five years.

LAMONT TO AID MORGAN, YOUNG

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—(A.P.)—Having received the acceptances of J. P. Morgan and Owen D. Young to serve as unofficial American observers to the Reparations' Conference, Sir Esme Howard, British ambassador, was here today to confer with them.

Sir Esme, upon his arrival in New York, said he obtained the acceptances of Mr. Morgan and Mr. Young by telephone before leaving Washington and had already cabled the fact abroad. He said he also had obtained the acceptance of Thomas N. Perkins, of Boston, to serve as alternate.

The final step to American participation in the conference will not be accomplished until the formal invitations are received from the commission.

Although Thomas W. Lamont, a Morgan partner, was not mentioned by Sir Esme as an alternate there was general expectation that his name would be forwarded to the commission after today's conference. At any rate, it generally was expected Mr. Lamont would accompany Mr. Morgan to Paris for the commission meetings next month.

ISOBEL SHEPPARD

TECH GIRLS VIE IN RIFLE TEST

Carnegie Institute of Technology students next week will be watching one of the liveliest contests that has ever been staged on the campus.

The contest is for the silver trophy, donated annually by Maj. J. G. Taylor, head of the department of military science, to the member of the girls' rifle team who attains the highest score in marksmanship.

START MONDAY

The match begins Monday and will continue throughout the week until Saturday, when the cup will be awarded by Maj. Taylor. The women "infantrymen" have been practicing daily for several weeks in the rifle range at Margaret Morrison Hall.

Thirty girls have entered the competition, according to Isobel Sheppard, manager of the team. All entrants are required to fire a certain number of rounds of ammunition with a regular 22-caliber United States Army rifle. Firing must be done in all positions—standing, kneeling, prone.

DINNER AT STAKE

Even keener than the interest evinced by members of the girls' rifle team in this contest is that in the competition with the men's team. They are determined to show the world that women can become as accomplished marksmen as the male co-students.

March will bring the supreme test. If by that time the girls' scores are higher than the men's, the latter will have to entertain them at a dinner. If the men are victorious, the co-eds will be required to bear the victory dinner expense.

SUBTLE SENATE FILIBUSTER ON NAVAL BILL SUSPECTED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—(A.P.)—Senate leaders are beginning to wonder if all the time being consumed in debate these days is not an indirect filibuster, at least, against the cruiser construction bill.

Far behind the regular schedule in disposition of the necessary appropriation bills, the Senate is beginning to have a crowded calendar, although it has only the one major piece of legislation, the cruiser bill, still pending. A crafty filibuster admittedly could endanger this measure.

There are six weeks to go and the determination of President-elect Hoover to have an extra session for farm relief and tariff revision has removed two of the biggest problems of the session from the calendar. But this development only seems to have increased the tactics of delay.

Today was set aside completely by the Senate for consideration of the nomination of Roy O. West, of Chicago, to be secretary of the interior, and there was no assurance even of a vote on it by nightfall.

Chairman Hale, of the Senate Naval Committee, is preparing to attempt to force longer daily sessions. Friends of the cruiser construction bill also are beginning to think of the cloture rule, which limits debate. It requires a two-thirds vote to make this operative.

Republican independents, led by Senator Norris, of Nebraska, are ready to oppose the cruiser bill. The opposition camp also includes Senator King, of Utah, and a number of other Democrats and has considerable strength, but the cruiser proponents insist they have the two-thirds required for a cloture if such is necessary.

Man Hangs Himself; Ill Health Blamed

11 ARE KILLED IN MID-WEST STORMS

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—(AP.)—Spring storms, two months ahead of time, killed 11 persons in five states yesterday, injured many more, caused heavy property damage and finally swirled away up the St. Lawrence River Valley.

In several places the storm that moved northeastward from Southern Missouri, across Illinois, Indiana and Ohio, was of tornadic violence, especially at Cape Girardeau, Mo., where two small children were killed; at Maunie, Ill., where there were three deaths, and at Fort Branch, Ind., where one woman was killed.

Unseasonal rains and high winds were reported over a wide area contiguous to the path of the principal storm, going as far South as Mississippi, where one man was killed. Two men drowned in the Ohio River when the storm capsized their skiff, and another was blow from a bridge at Louisville, Ky.

VICTIMS OF STORM

Victims of the storm were:

DOROTHY MAY HANDLEY, 13, Maunie, Ill.

BERNICE TUCKER, 13, Maunie.

MRS. AMOS NEWMAN, Maunie.

MARJORIE HARGRAVES, 4, near Cape Girardeau, Mo.

BUDDIE HARGRAVES, 3, near Cape Girardeau, Mo.

MRS. MARY NOLEN, 65, Fort Branch, Ind.

ROY LITER, 21, and CLINTON MAHONEY, 24, drowned in Ohio River between Milton, Ky., and Madison, Ind.

O. G. KLOSSE, killed in barn collapse near Louisville.

WILLIAM THRASHER, 43, blown from bridge at Louisville, Ky.

EMELIA FERRETTI, about 65, Shelby, Miss.

LIVESTOCK KILLED

A Negro also was missing in the Shelby, Miss., storm and is believed to have been buried under wreckage of the three-story hardware store and Masonic lodge building which was leveled. The roof of this structure was carried across the street and dropped upon Ferretti's shoe shop, crushing it and killing the shoemaker.

First damage from the storm occurred south of Cape Girardeau, Mo., where the two Hargraves children met death. The storm, swept by twisting wind and accompanied by rain, cut across Illinois, bearing northeast and causing damage at Texas City, Norris City, Harrisburg, Chris City and Anna. Buildings were blown down and there was loss among livestock.

SMALL STEAMER UPSET

Cloudbursts were reported through the south-central Illinois section, causing heavy damage by the flooding of buildings. The small steamer Mary J. overturned in the Ohio River at Mounds, Ill. No one was aboard. Small streams throughout the area overflowed, and traffic was halted in many places where the water covered portions of the highways.

The violence of the storm was intensified at Maunie, at the Illinois-Indiana line, where a school building collapsed, killing two children and Mrs. Newman and causing injuries, some serious, to 25 pupils.

Rising temperatures preceded and accompanied the storm, thermometers going as high as 64 degrees at Evansville, Ind. Temperatures began falling when night came.

10 IN FLOODED HOMES SAVED FROM RIVERS

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 19.—(AP.)—Ten persons were rescued early today as rising waters of the Cuyahoga and Chagrin rivers swirled about their homes.

Three men braved the swollen waters of the Chagrin River, which had overflowed into a ravine, to rescue Mr. and Mrs. Grant Downing, their 3-year-old daughter, Dorothy, and a 20-month-old baby, from their home. Two men were taken from the roof of a shack after the Cuyahoga River had risen three feet in an hour and awakened them in their bunks.

Coast guardsmen saved another family, marooned at the mouth of the Chagrin River. Two children and their mother and father were carried to safety in a collapsible boat.

Attracted by Downing's gun fire, Lionel Heath, Ray Cattell and Winfield Scott dragged a rowboat up the river to near the Downing home and attached a rope to the stern.

Scott sat in the boat and guided it near Downing's house as the two paid out the line. Downing tossed Scott a rope and drew him to his door as he passed. The children were taken off first and their parents were rescued on the second trip.

SLAYING WIFE LAID TO PACT

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 19.—(AP.)—In fulfillment of an alleged written wedding agreement by which either party was to kill the other for unfaithfulness, John Daily shot and killed his wife here yesterday in the store where she was employed.

Dailey explained to police that his wife had deserted him 10 days ago, taking all their household furniture. He considered that a violation of the pact.

Before her marriage to Dailey, the woman was Mrs. Joseph Corbin, wife of a Chicago minister whom she divorced in 1926. She was 35. Word of her death was kept from her 17-year-old daughter, Marie, who is critically ill with tuberculosis.

Dailey surrendered to store employes who seized him after the shooting. He said he and his wife had lived happily until her fellow employes began twitting her because her husband failed to support her.

BOOTH'S LEGAL HOPE SLIM

LONDON, Jan. 19.—(AP.)—Hope that the courts would find that Gen. Bramwell Booth has no legal grounds to prevent his being ousted from command of the Salvation Army was held today in reform circles.

Lawyers of the Army were understood to have assured the reform party in the high council that they had nothing to fear from the surprise injunction sprung by the General as the council met to choose his successor. They were confident that the Chancery Court would set aside the injunction when the case is called on Monday, and the council will be left free to proceed with election of a new general on Tuesday.

Salvation Army circles were grief-stricken over the death of Commissioner Haines, vice president of the council, feeling that it was directly caused by word of the injunction. He had just finished a speech on the oppression of the present system of the Army, during which he had been frequently annoyed by interruptions from Catherine and Mary Booth, daughters of the General.

TESTIFIES FOR WIFE

DALLET H. WILSON MRS. WILSON

MAN ON STAND DEFENDS WIFE FOR SHOOTING HIM

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—Dallet H. Wilson, prominent attorney, has come to the defense of the woman who shot him. She is his wife, Mrs. Esther Evans Deforest Wilson, explorer and big game huntress, on trial charged with assault with intent to kill him. She is well known in Washington and New York society.

But her husband, although estranged from her and the star witness for the state, not only has shouldered the blame for the shooting, but has stated positively that "it was purely an accident."

He testified yesterday it was he who made the first violent move.

"I jumped up and grabbed a paper weight," he said. "Then I started around the desk. I felt a sting."

Nearly every answer, both under direct and cross-examination, was aimed to save his wife. He was a state's witness, but a very reluctant one.

Wilson was the first witness called after a jury had been chosen

VARE'S POWER SHAKEN BY JUDGESHIP DEFEAT

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 19.—(AP.)—The election of Judge Charles L. Brown as president judge of the Municipal Court over the protest of Senator-elect William S. Vare, was viewed by political observers today as of greater significance than the defeat at the November election of several candidates in South Philadelphia wards backed by the senator-elect.

Many politicians accepted the outcome of the municipal court controversy as a serious threat to Vare's leadership of the local Republican organization. Patronage of the court, with its 550 employes and annual payroll of $1,000,000 was said to have had something to do with the controversy.

Senator-elect Vare had telephoned Thursday night from Florida, where he is recovering from a stroke of paralysis suffered last summer, and appealed to the members of the court to recognize their "obligations" and vote for Judge Leopold C. Glass, an adherent of the Vare organization. His appeal was in vain, for seven of the 10 judges comprising the court cast their ballots for Brown, who has not been identified with the Vare interests.

They died within an hour of each other in St. Vincent's Hospital.

Benjamin Johnson, 43, who was badly burned on the face and arms carrying his wife and daughter from the burning house, is in a serious condition at St. Vincent's Hospital. Attendants say he will recover. Three other children of the Johnson family escaped the explosion without injury.

PROGRAM FROM AUTO SHOW TO BE ON AIR

By DARRELL V MARTIN,
Radio Editor.

Numerous features will be offered listeners tonight from local broadcasting stations, including a broadcast of the Silver Masked Tenor and the Silvertown Orchestra from the Automobile Show at 8 p. m., through WJAS.

Thomas A. Edison is scheduled to speak from KDKA at 9:30 o'clock. His subject has not been announced.

Hans Barth, famous musician, will lead the Gold Spot Pals Orchestra through KDKA at 6:30 o'clock. A march, "Soldiers' Patrol," by Mr. Barth, will open the program.

The concerts by Godfrey Ludlow, Sam Herman and the Oriental Orchestra contain a varied appeal.

LANGFITT SPEAKS

"Why I Am a Member of the Izaak Walton League," will be the subject of George F. P. Langfitt, assistant district attorney, Allegheny County, in a 15-minute talk from KDKA tonight at 7:30 o'clock.

Mae Sweeny's "Strollers," who made a big hit last Saturday in their newspaper play, "Copy," will be heard in two playlets from WCAE at 7 o'clock tonight. The first presentation is "The Grill," a melodramatic play, and the second, "The Master Salesman," a humorous satire on the man who writes a treatise on the "Psychology of Salesmanship."

REAL PUNCH

Last Saturday before the broadcast of "Copy," the Strollers made a trip through the Sun-Telegraph plant to get atmosphere for their play. That a trip through the plant of Pittsburgh's leading newspaper gave them the "right slant" on the theme of the play, is best attested by several telephone calls received and a very kind letter from Mae Sweeny, who said that the trip through the Sun-Telegraph plant gave the Strollers the "proper punch" for putting the play over. The actors were instructed in every detail in the production of a newspaper when they visited the Sun-Telegraph.

The "Danse Bacchanale" from Saint-Saens' "Samson et Delila," is featured on the Whitehouse Orchestra Hour at 6:30 p. m. Dvork's "Indian Lament" is another selection.

WILFORD GRENFELL

The National Orchestra under Walter Damrosch, will conduct the usual concert at 8 o'clock, followed at 9 p. m. by a speech, "My Work in Labrador," by Sir Wilford Grenfell.

Broadway hits from musical comedy shows will be offered by the Lucky Strike Dance Orchestra at 10 o'clock.

Wagner's "Siegfred Idyl," written as a birthday gift to the composer's wife, and named for his son, will be played during the Slumber Music Concert at 11 p. m. over WJZ. Other selections will be the Overture to "Rosamunde," by Schubert; Sibelius' "Valse Triste," and "Song of the Volga Boatman."

The second playlet is a humorous satire on the man who writes a treatise on the "Psychology of Salesmanship," which he attempts to try out on his first customer.

The cast for these two plays consists of Nora O'Connor, Ella Mae MacAteer, Willard Mead and Gerard MacAteer.

Speaker

GEORGE F. P. LANGFITT

"Why I am a Member of the Izaak Walton League of America," is the subject of a 15-minute radio address over KDKA at 7:30 o'clock tonight by George S. P. Langfitt, assistant district attorney.

"HANDS-OFF" POLICY URGED ON U. S. BY W. VA. COAL MAN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—(AP.)—The Senate Interstate Commerce Committee yesterday heard additional testimony against the bill to stabilize the bituminous coal industry and planned its program so that the other side of the argument might be heard, beginning Monday.

At that time, the United Mine Workers of America, which favors the measure, will be permitted to state its views as rebuttal to the mass of argument already offered by coal operators and business men to the effect that the bill constitutes an invasion by the government of the rights of private enterprise.

Yesterday's hearing was devoted solely to testimony by A. W. Belcher, of Charleston, W. Va., representing the West Virginia Coal Association.

He told the committee that in his opinion no legislation whatever was needed to stabilize the industry and that if the government would maintain a "hands off" policy, the industry, through its own endeavors, would set itself upon a profitable basis.

In fact, he added, captains of bituminous coal already had set themselves to the task and it was his opinion that, unhampered by governmental interferences, the industry would reassert itself within a reasonable time.

In the House, the coal question was discussed by Representative Robison (Rep.), Kentucky, who charged that the American Merchant Marine had neglected to attempt to develop forsign coal markets for domestic coal. He said the Shipping Board should use some of its 250 tied-up ships as coal carriers. He supported the provision in the independent offices appropriation bill for $1,500,000 for the Shipping Board to use in developing foreign coal markets.

MAN CONVICTED IN AUTO DEATH

James Kuntz, 19, of 1517 Laurel street, was convicted of involuntary manslaughter in Criminal Court before Judge J. Frank Graff, of Kittanning, yesterday. He was charged with having caused the death of Benson B. Ingram, 40, of 1421 Chateau street, who was struck by an automobile the night of June 16 last as he stepped from the curb at Chateau street and Pennsylvania avenue. Ingram suffered a fracture of the skull and died an hour later in St. John's Hospital.

Kuntz was driving rapidly and had three other persons in the front seat with him, according to the testimony. Sentence will be pronounced later. Assistant District Attorney John F. Haggerty and Attorney Michael Musmanno were opposing counsel.

Ranks Thinning, Butler G. A. R. Disbands

BUTLER, Pa., Jan. 19.—After the membership of A. G. Reed Post No. 105, Grand Army of the Republic, had been decreased from about 200 to less than a score, the members decided to disband the post. It had been active for more than 50 years.

County Court Busier, Says Judge Kennedy

Every branch of the county court here had more business in 1928 than in the preceding year, Presiding Judge Richard A. Kennedy said in a report made last night. Appeals were taken in this court in one out of every 1,000 cases, it was said. There was 5,068 civil suits entered and 180 summary convictions, making a total of 5,248.

In the desertion and non-support branch, 2,048 new suits were filed. Husbands paid $752,476.15 to the court for their families. In the Juvenile Court branch there were 1,463 new suits entered.

Two frame dwellings on 34x213 feet at 3506 Ruthven street have been sold through the Gribbin Company for Pasquale Zottola to Ralph Simeone.

In Carrick, James A. Prophater has sold to Christina Dawe 30x110 feet in Suncrest avenue.

Alienation Suit Brought Against Wife's Father

Father-in-law was one of the things Charles Lefkowitz had most of, according to a $100,000 suit, charging alienation of affections, which Lefkowitz filed yesterday in Common Pleas Court.

Charles Nicholas, the father-in-law, induced his daughter, Helen, to leave Lefkowitz in Pittsburgh on January 20, 1926, the plaintiff's petition averred, and go to California with him. Since then Mrs. Lefkowitz has not returned, the husband charged.

The father-in-law, Lefkowitz added, came back long enough to sell all the furniture and turn him out of the home where he and his wife had lived.

HARRY COULBY, STEEL MAN, DIES ABROAD

Harry Coulby, 64, of Wickliffe, O., for many years a coal operator here, and former president of the Pittsburgh Steamship Company, died of a heart attack yesterday in the Ritz Hotel, London, according to word received here. The Pittsburgh Steamship Company is a subsidiary of the United States Steel Corporation. Mr. Coulby also had been identified with the Pickands-Mather Company of Cleveland.

He was born in England and came to this country when 20 years old. In Cleveland he became a stenographer for John Hay, who later was secretary of state.

Entering the iron ore trade in Cleveland, Mr. Coulby in 1901 was placed in charge of the Great Lakes fleet of the United States Steel Corporation. He was also associated with Samuel Mather, a brother-in-law of Hay, Coulby's first employer. Mr. Coulby was well known in Pittsburgh and had many friends among the river men here.

Dispatches from London said Mr. Coulby would be buried in Claypole, Lancashire.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are gentle in their action, yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c, 30c and 60c.

HELPED AT CHANGE OF LIFE

MRS. CORA CALAHAN
216 E. Ashton Ave., Grand Island, Nebr.

"I am going through the Change of Life. At times I would cry for hours. I got tired of going to the doctor so I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Before I had taken the first bottle I began to get better. I have taken eight bottles now. I feel that it has saved my life, also doctor's bills. I work for a family of six, washing, cooking and do all my own work. People say I look like 25."—Mrs. Cora Calahan.

MRS. F. C. HELMING
822 E. Harrison St., Portland, Ore.

"Lydia E. Pinkham did for me what doctors failed to do. When the Change of Life began I was very poorly. Now at 55 I do all my own work, attend two dances a week and it is hard to make people believe I am over 40. I never see a woman in ill health but I advocate your medicine because I know its value. Every woman should take it, not just for a month or two but until they have passed the critical period."—Mrs. F. C. Helming.

Yiddish Talkie New Film Venture

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 19.—One of the day's movie developments is the news that Universal will soon give the world its first Yiddish talking picture.

Thus Yiddish is probably the first foreign language to be heard in a Hollywood talker.

The film, a two-reeler, will be an adaptation of a stage play titled "The Greer Millionaire," by Abraham Schomer. It was presented in the New York Yiddish Art Theater.

Schomer himself has come to Hollywood to direct, and the chances are that Rudolph Schildkraut will play the title role.

CAMERA GLIMPSES :-: OF PROMINENT :-: MOVIE PEOPLE

Gloria Swanson bids goodby to her husband, Marquis de la Falaise, who starts out for Europe. Gloria's film, "Queen Kelly," keeps her in Hollywood.

Chester Conklin seems to be enjoying himself in this scene from "The Haunted House." By the looks of this photo the house must be haunted by pretty girls, not ghosts. And Thelma Todd and Barbara Bedford are two of the girls.

Al Jolson, mammy glorifying and Sonny Boy's movie daddy, greets Alice White, youthful and popular screen actress. Miss White's newest screen drama is "Naughty Baby," to be released soon.

JETTA GOUDAL WINS SIXTEEN CENTS AT HOLLYWOOD ROULETTE PARTY

By DOROTHY HERZOG.

(Copyright, 1929, by Premier Syndicate)

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 19.

SHORTLY before Christmas, George Converse—Anita Stewart's fiance—adopted a fuzzy bit of lost kitten. The critter became very much at home in George's apartment. When George and Anita started their flicker tour with his two-reel offering, "Anita Stewart in Hollywood," he decided to keep his apartment so the lil' kitten kat would have a home. Anita's mother drops in daily to feed it.

Jetta Goudal went to a roulette party 'tother eve and was extremely proud to discover for the first time in her "remembery" she had won. Jetta won the stupendous sum of 16 cents!

Screen to Offer Cameo Kerby As Talker

"Cameo Kirby" is to come to life again in the talkies. This is the interesting story that helped Jack Gilbert along the road to film fame in the good old days of silent photoplays.

At the time John was working for Fox, and it is on the Fox lot that "Kirby" will be made again. William K. Howard has been assigned to direct as soon as he completes his current drama, "The Valiant." No casting has yet been done, but it is understood that Warner Baxter, recent Fox acquisition, is the probable selection for the hero role.

Howard is one of the very few directors who have developed during the past four years. Most of the megaphone men date back to the old Sennett days. But Howard, a St. Marys, Ohio, boy, made good as a New York film salesman before he got a chance at directing. Until now he has been under the Pathe contract and farmed out to Fox. But his new contract is direct with the Fox.

BUCHAREST, Jan. 19.—(AP.)—Queen Marie and her daughter, the Princess Ileana, advanced their itineraries by one day and left for Constantinople this afternoon. Fashion Talk By Max Ree

MAX BEE, fashion director, says: At the beach, Sunday, I saw Gwen Lee wearing over her bathing suit the latest thing in lido-or-beach-pajamas. The loose hanging jacket and trousers were of printed Blandrini chiffon in orange, lemon yellow and black flowered design. The neck was cut V-shape. A scarf draped around her shoulders, or orange chiffon, finished with two large silk tassels, shaded in yellow and orange. She wore a draped turban of flowered chiffon, combined with plain orange chiffon. She also wore orange pumps. A stunning beach costume for a blonde.

Colleen Likes Chewing Gum

COLLEEN MOORE and her husband, John McCormick, were entertaining friends from England. They dawled over coffee and cigarets. The subject in some unknown way centered on chewing gum, Colleen's favorite indoor sport. The Britishers spoke witheringly of the practice. "I really cawn't understand why one indulges in the vulgar habit," concluded one. Colleen smiled brightly and refused to meet her husband's eyes. The Jap butler, hearing mention of gum several times, decided Miss Moore wished it served. He entered carrying a large platter containing every make of "jaw exercise" and seriously passed it to each guest. Colleen's face crimsoned. The guests talked over and around their astonishment. The Jap, meeting with no success, exited to the kitchen bewildered!

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

THIS IS THE TRUTH

By L. LAMAR MATTHEWS.

WHEN Viola was 16 and Harry was 18 years old they were married. The week following they left the cross-roads village where they were born and went to a nearby city, where they found work in a cotton factory.

Before very long Harry became ill, hopelessly ill; and for months the young wife earned the living, cooked the meals, kept the house and did the nursing for her invalid husband.

During these terrible months the girl's only solace and friend was Miss Alice Day, who was in charge of the Settlement House in the district. Baskets of food, barrels of coal, and a warm lounging robe for Harry found their way into that one-room home through the kindly efforts of Miss Day.

Sometimes Miss Alice dropped in at night and talked for a while with Viola. Those were red-letter occasions for the little factory girl. She remembered everything Miss Alice told her and wondered how anybody could learn so much.

One cold rainy day in March, Harry closed his eyes and went to sleep for good.

After Viola had somewhat recovered from the shock she went to see Miss Alice at the Settlement House.

"I want to get away from the factory," the girl stated simply. "Will you help me?"

"What else can you do?" asked Miss Day.

"I'd like to work in the telephone office. I know a girl who works there and I think it is fine."

So Miss Day went to see the telephone supervisor and secured a place for Viola. She also secured accommodations for her at the Working Girls' Boarding Home near the telephone company's building.

Viola was delighted with her change in fortune. She liked her work and she gave the best she had to it.

A few days after she took her new job she began studying at night school. It took a long time for Viola to overcome her handicaps but she kept plugging.

"Viola is getting pretty," some of her co-workers began to say.

"Viola talks well," said others.

"Viola is such a clean, sweet girl," said the landlady.

"Viola is the best operator I have," said the supervisor.

"Viola is the most ambitious girl I ever saw," said her instructors.

Miss Alice heard what they said and laughed.

"Viola knows where she's going and she's on her way," she chuckled.

Then came Viola to her best friend with a new ambition.

"Miss Alice, I want to go to the Woman's College," she stated.

"How can you, my dear?"

"I can go to the night classes. It is English and French that I wish to study. Will you help me to arrange it?"

Miss Alice was dazed for a moment. But she agreed to see what could be done.

And at last Viola was happily launched in her study of French and of English at the Woman's College.

It was during these glorified days that she met Barnett Hubbard. Now Barnett belonged to a very old and wealthy family. But he was not doing so well himself. Barnett was going down. Viola was coming up. So they met.

She felt immensely flattered when Barnett Hubbard first asked her to go out with him. She was exultant when he came back again. She was too happy to think clearly when he continued to seek her society. After a whirlwind courtship he asked her to marry him.

"I love you, Viola," he said, "I've never amounted to much; but if you'll marry me I'll start right in to work. With a girl like you to help me, I'm bound to pull up somehow."

And so Viola became Mrs. Barnett Hubbard.

Not long ago, Miss Alice went on a business trip to the city where the Hubbards live. Five minutes after she arrived at the hotel, a smartly dressed, radiant young woman hopped out of her car, tripped into the hotel and laid a huge bunch of roses in Miss Day's arms.

"I'm the happiest woman in the world, Miss Alice," Viola Hubbard declared, "and I owe every blessed bit of it to you. If it hadn't been for you I'd still be in that factory."

"No, dear," answered Miss Alice, "if I hadn't helped you, you would have found somebody else who would."

There's no dramatic climax to this story; no terrific conflict; no tragic nor spectacular ending. But there's one high point to this tale of love, service and achievement. It is the truth.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Luella Marshall to Wed Thursday at Small Home Ceremony

AS a contrast to the several large, formal weddings we have had in our social group so far in the new year, I find that Luella Marshall, who is going to marry George Chalfant Kennedy, son of Mrs. Delmont Jones Kennedy, of the Schenley Apartments, next Thursday, has planned a very small home ceremony, with just the two immediate families present. Luella is a daughter of the David Jones Marshalls, you know, and the marriage will be solemnized in their home in Forbes street by the Rev. Dr. John W. Hawley, pastor of the First Methodist Protestant Church. Neither Luella nor her fiance is to have any attendants, I understand, and all the arrangements for the ceremony are extremely simple.

From all reports, today's society wedding here in the city is going to be a beautiful affair. This, needless to repeat, is the marriage of Anne Louise Marshall, daughter of the Lee Holmes Marshalls, of Dunmoyle street, and Wallace Hurtte Rowe, Jr., son of Mrs. Wallace Hurtte Rowe, of Moorewood avenue, which will be solemnized at 6:30 o'clock in the Third Presbyterian Church. The ceremony will be performed by the pastor of the church, the Rev. Dr. William L. McEwen, and he will be assisted by the pastor of the Shadyside Presbyterian Church, the Rev. Dr. Hugh Thomson Kerr. Afterwards, there will be a reception and supper in the Twentieth Century Club, with the families and the bridal party as guests.

This morning, you know, Mr. Rowe's sister, the former Sarah Maragaret Rowe, and her husband, Robert Broddy Duggan, who are here from Toronto for the wedding, gave the wedding breakfast in the Pittsburgh Golf Club. And the rehearsal dinner was given last night by another sister of the bridegroom, Eleanor Rowe.

STILL another small debutante affair is being planned, I hear. This is a luncheon which Mrs. Frederick B. Hufnagle, of Woodland road, Edgeworth, is going to give next Wednesday afternoon in the Duquesne Club for Jane Edson and Emily Stuart. The other buds of the season will be the guests, and after luncheon Mrs. Hufnagle will take them to the theater.

NOW for a word or two about the many folks who are either out of the city now or are planning trips. I understand that Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cordes, of Lytton avenue, Schenley Farms, are spending several weeks at the Bon Air-Vanderbilt Hotel in Augusta, Ga. And Nan Bunton, daughter of the C. C. Buntons, of South avenue, Wilkinsburg, who was a debutante last winter, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Weir, Jr., of Philadelphia. Nan expects to remain in the Quaker City until about the first of February, and then she is going up to Princeton for the prom. Later, I believe, she is planning to attend a house party to be given by Miss Natalia Clarke at Bayside, Long Island, and won't be home until the middle of February.

Also away from home just now are Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Fownes, IV, of Wilkins avenue. They sailed on Monday for Bermuda and will remain there, I believe, until late in February. You remember, of course, that Mrs. Fownes was Margery Townsend before she was married more than a year ago.

MRS. JOHN GEORGE DAUB, of Brighton road, North Side, gave a bridge luncheon today in her home to announce the engagement of her daughter, Miss Jean Pitcairn Daub, to Paul K. Dodworth, son of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Dodworth, of this city. An early spring wedding is planned. Miss Daub is a graduate of the Margaret Morrison Carnegie College for Women, and Mr. Dodworth was graduated from the University of Pittsburgh.

MAJ. J. G. TAYLOR, United States Army, of the department of military science and tactics of Carnegie Tech, is chairman of the committee in charge of the dinner-dance to be given next Saturday night in the University Club by the Benny Havens Club, local organization of former West Point men, in honor of the United States Military Academy basketball team. The Army team will meet the University of Pittsburgh quintet at the stadium pavilion that night. The game will be followed by the party for the cadets.

THE marriage of Miss Sadye Goldstein, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. Goldstein, of South Atlantic avenue, and Samuel H. Adler, of Hobart street, was solemnized Tuesday in the study of the Rev. B. J. Lichter. A dinner for the families followed the ceremony in the Hotel Schenley. Mr. and Mrs. Adler have left for a trip to Havana and after February 1 will be at home in Wightman street.

MRS. AGNES M. DONLEY, of Chislett street, announces the marriage of her daughter, Miss Doris L. Donley, and John Calvin Valentine, of Meyersdale, Pa., which was solemnized January 8 in the Donley home. Mr. and Mrs. Valentine will make their home in Pittsburgh.

* * *

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM H. DIETZ, of Walderf street, North Side, announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Carolyne Dietz, to James M. Simeral, Jr., of Bellevue, at a luncheon bridge party given today in Kaufmann's. No wedding date has been set.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT G. CAMPBELL, of North Negley avenue, have made known the engagement of their daughter, Miss Margaret Elinor Campbell, to T. Holland Hunter, son of Charles Rowan Hunter, of Sewickley.

FOSTER DRIVE LEADERS NAMED

Mrs. Allderdice was named to represent the group before the Pennsylvania Society of New York, and she has been asked to speak before the society at its annual dinner in New York next Thursday night. The society is composed of former residents of Pennsylvania now living in New York. A resolution was passed asking the appointment of a representative of the Civic Club of Allegheny County to the building fund committee.

The preliminary organization work will culminate in a public appeal in April at which time efforts will be made to raise $500,000 for the erection of a building in Oakland to serve as a memorial to Pittsburgh's famous song writer.

Toscha Seidel Trio.

James Bortz presented the Toscha Seidel Trio in a very popular program at Carnegie Hall last evening. The audience was well pleased, for it called for encores when each of the members of the trio appeared as soloist.

The program began with a very sonorous trio of Brahms and then dwindled into a hodge-podge of conservatory pieces, destroying the refined spirit we are accustomed to find in chamber music recitals. The trio can boast more of opulence in tone than of its finesse. And that is why Brahms came over with such verve. There was hardly enough nuance and relief from the drive of bows.

Toscha Seidel is a violinist of considerable finish and brilliance, and leads the trio into its faults, for the other players are not to be outdone. Evsel Beloussoff plays with ease, but displayed no knowledge of finer music values, either in the trios or in his solo playing. Emanuel Bay, the pianist, is a good accompanist, and in the ensemble kept very much within his rights. But as a soloist, he played two familiar Chopin numbers in the most matter-of-fact manner imaginable.

"My dear, I WISH you could have seen MOTHer last night, COYly attired in one of my SKIMpiest GOWNS and aDORing it MADly! HONestly, I NEARly had hysTERics because ONE minute she was having bad emBARrassment trouble saying she hoped she didn't look like an old woman trying frantically to look like a sweet young THING, and the next she was adMIring herself PLAcidly in the GLASS, perfectly conVINCED she looked diVINE and whatnot—can you COPE with it? Well, ANYways, my dear, I was simply conVULSED at what happened AFterwards, because I sent her DOWN to surprise DADdy.

Vic and Westcott Arrested After Brawl at Inn Over Nancy

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Nancy Dean, golden-haired, dark-eyed, who has lived her 18 years with David and Margaret O'Day, foster parents, in Washington, learns she is the granddaughter of the wealthy and aristocratic Montgomery Deanes in Pittsburgh, who disinherited her father and do not even know of her existence. Through John Blair, an upstanding young man, she has learned to admire, she secures a letter to Howard Wescott, manager of the Wear Ever Mills in Pittsburgh. On the train she meets Ginger Varden, a style model who takes her to her boarding house and introduces her to her friends. One of these, Vic Flemming, makes love to her and asks her to marry him. She finally securs a job in the knitting mill where Wescott, attracted by her beauty, offers her a place in the office. She is naively delighted, but both Ginger and Vic characterize Wescott as a "big bum."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XII.

EXACTLY why both Ginger and Vic called Howard Wescott a "big bum" Nancy didn't learn right then.

That characterization was meaningless so far as his looks were concerned. The reason Ginger didn't explain further why she so regarded Howard Wescott, was that Jerry Durant came whistling up the stairs. Before he reached the door Nancy begged them to say nothing of her story to Jerry. She said she was weary of telling about it, and she couldn't go through the whole thing again.

"After what you say, and after the scene Vic here put on when I told him I was getting a better job, goodness only knows what kind of a rumpus he will set up," she said.

The words were hardly uttered when Jerry's rat-tat-tat was heard on the door, and in another instant he was in the room.

"Whew!" he exclaimed. "What's all the gloom about? You could cut the atmosphere in here with a knife. What's the trouble? Somebody break a leg?"

How quick Jerry was to catch the atmosphere of a room, Nancy thought.

Ginger, more used to acting than Nancy, was the first to speak. "Not a thing's the matter," she said, "not a little thing, Jerry old topper."

She lit a cigaret nonchalantly and started sorting a heap of dust-laden phonograph records piled in a corner.

"Gosh, these are old timers," she said. She selected "Yes Sir, That's My Baby" and started to do the Charleston.

"Gloom your eye, who's gloomy"? she sang.

"Yes, sir, I don't mean maybe—"

She grabbed Jerry by the shoulders and they both started to dance the Charleston, so strenuously and with such stamping of feet that it brought protestations from the room below. If Jerry suspected something wrong his suspicions were soon forgotten, and in another minute the room was anything but gloomy, with the exception of Vic, who seemed more silent than usual.

Ginger and Jerry finished their dance. It was just enough of a dance to make them want more, to start their feet itching for the dance floor. Ginger had been in her room nearly all day and she was fresh and rested. She was ready to make a night of it.

When Jerry asked, "where we goin' tonight?" Nancy's heart sank.

Were these people made of iron, she thought, to keep up this pace. Her back ached from fatigue and nervous excitement. She longed to climb into bed, to get away from this incessant round of pleasure, dancing, going.

"How about a turn in the 'ward?" Jerry suggested.

"I haven't been down to the Monte Carlo or the Moulin Rouge for so long that I've forgotten how they look inside. Hear they got a new colored jazz band at the Monte Carlo."

"Too quiet out there," Ginger objected. "I want to dance, not to tussle on a dime."

"Well then, the Crystal Springs Inn."

"To quiet out there," Ginger went to the other extreme.

"If that isn't just like a woman," Jerry said.

He suggested the Riverside Inn, Sam Pick's, The Golden Pheasant.

"Let's take a look in at a number of them," Vic joined in.

It was the first thing he had said since Jerry entered the room. All these places were new to Nancy. She knew no more about one than the other.

"Alrighto, let's stop at the Golden Pheasant first," Jerry said.

He was anxious to get started and began looking around the room for the girls' wraps.

"Please people. Won't you get some other girl to go in my place?" Nancy pleaded. "I'm worn out with the new job and everything that I'd be pretty dull company tonight."

Her answer was a laugh, from the three of them.

"What you need is a change of scenery, not sleep," Ginger said. "a little music and the bright lights will make you forget that socks factory that you've been wastin' your youth and beauty in today."

"Sure thing," added Vic.

"Here, take a little of this. It'll brighten you up in no time and you'll be rarin' to go," Jerry said.

He pulled out a long silver flask from his hip pocket, opened it and passed it under Nancy's nose several times.

Nancy was no prude. She knew the taste of liquor though she never had drunk for the sake of having a good time. As for being actually intoxicated, she had never been that in her life. Too often she had seen Darry O'Day after he had partaken of the bottle too freely. The smell in Jerry's flask brought back with a rush Mrs. O'Day's hatred of liquor.

It seemed that every thing these people were teaching her brought up a vision of Maggie O'Day. "Mud, dear, dear Muddy."

Nancy remembered with a pang that she had not written a line to her and she had been in Pittsburgh two days. She hadn't had one free minute with the rushing of these jazz mad companions of hers.

"Sure thing, let's all have a highball before we start out." Ginger said, starting for the door.

Nancy felt panicky. For some unaccountable reason she feared to have Ginger leave the room. She dreaded being left alone in Ginger's bedroom with the two men. It didn't seem quite—quite nice, she felt.

"I'll be back in a minute," Ginger called back. She was half way down the stairs now.

"I'm just going to snitch a little cracked ice from Mrs. Carmondy's ice box. Besides I've got some ginger ale of my own that's been coolin' ever since I went up north."

Nancy ran out of the room and to the head of the stairs. She leaned against the bannister and put her hand over her eyes in a half tired, half hopeless motion, as though she couldn't resist the demands of the three people whose company she had to share for the third consecutive night. She stood there, trying to gather strength and courage to go back into the room.

Vic called: "Say, Goldie Locks. What you doin' out there? Don't you like your boy friends any more?"

He came out of the room, his big form almost filling the doorway and shutting out the light that streamed from the room into the dim hall. Nancy felt he was going to come to her, start petting her, that he would want to kiss her again.

"Is my little Nancy girl getting tired?" he asked.

His voice took on a soothing tone. One would think he was talking to a 2-year-old baby. He leaned over and touched his lips to her cheek. She made no resistance. She couldn't. She was too weary.

In another minute Ginger came bounding up the stairs, a dish of cracked ice in one hand and a bottle of ginger ale in the other. And in another minute the drinks were mixed and a tall, cool, clinking glass was pressed into Nancy's hand.

"Here's bottoms up," Vic said.

He, Ginger and Jerry lifted their glasses to their lips. Nancy made an attempt at it but lowered the glass without even wetting her lips. Of course the others noticed, and in one voice, almost, they said:

"Hey, what you trying to do, renege on us?"

Nancy didn't answer but raised the glass and took a long gulp of the highball.

"Atta girl," Jerry said.

Nancy took another drink from the glass, another and another, until there was nothing left but a handful of chipped ice.

. . . . . .

The Golden Pheasant roadhouse was crowded to the doors and the four had a hard time squeezing in. An extra table was set for them, wedged in a corner, so close to the next table that when Jerry wanted to get up, the person backing up to him had to rise also. The air was a blue haze, the music swift, jazzy enough to make the blood tingle.

Jerry's highball had gone to Nancy's head if anything ever had. That, along with the other drinks she was forced to take while driving out in Vic's big car. In the car there was no ginger ale to dilute the strong Scotch, and though Nancy hated the stuff, she was compelled to raise the flask to her lips each time it was passed around.

Though the liquor hardly more than wet her lips each time, her head was whirling, her temples throbbing. Ginger seemed to take as much to drink as the boys did, but by the time the car reached the roadhouse she was still talking coherently, which was more than Vic and Jerry were doing. Instead of going direct to the Golden Pheasant, Vic drove the car out to Sewickley and back, and just on the outskirts he drew up to a large, old-fashioned house set far back from the roadway.

When he came back he seemed brighter, more talkative than ever. Now that they were in the warm atmosphere of the crowded roadhouse he became more and more voluble.

They danced. As Vic took her in his arms, Nancy began to feel the same old thrill, despite warnings to herself that she mustn't be thrilled. He certainly could dance, smoothly and gracefully, much more so than anyone would suspect.

In a whirl Nancy turned her eyes to the doorway and had to look twice before she could believe her own eyes. There, standing above the dancers, on the steps that led down to the dance floor, was Howard Wescott, and on his arm hung one of the most beautiful women Nancy had ever seen. They were waiting while another table was crowded into another impossibly small space.

Nancy prayed that Vic Fleming wouldn't raise his eyes to the doorway. She started to talk, to chatter, she knew not what, to distract his attention.

"I love you, Goldie, kiddo," he spoke close to her ear. His voice was husky.

She leaned against him a little closer, hoping that he would bury his face in her hair and that he wouldn't see Howard Westcott. Her efforts were successful until the music stopped and the crowded, noisy couples started hurrying for their tables. But hardly had the four of them sat down when Vic raised his eyes and fastened them directly on Westcott. Nancy followed his gaze, wondering what Vic was going to do. What was he going to say?

He said and did what she thought he would.

"There's that big bum now," he muttered between his teeth.

"There's who?" Ginger asked, looking in the direction that Vic was looking.

"Howard Wescott, lady killer, Nancy's new boss!"

There was hate in Vic's voice and Jerry, who had discovered what Vic and Ginger were talking about, looked up and recognized Westcott.

Vic started to get up. His fists were clinched. Nancy was too filled with terror to move or to say a word. Vic started to leave the table.

"Vic, wait a minute!"

Ginger's voice was a screaming command.

"What are you going to do, Vic?"

She grabbed him by the coat sleeve. Vic's voice was thick now, his eyes bloodshot.

"I'll show him. I'll show that snob Westcott that he can't buy every pretty girl he sees."

He said the word "snob" with a shake of his head, tore himself loose from Ginger's hold, and started walking across the slippery dance floor, unsteadily, toward the table of Howard Westcott.

Howard Westcott, so absorbed in the girl who was sitting across the table from him, did not notice Vic coming toward him until the latter stood before him.

What happened Nancy never knew exactly. She saw Howard Westcott jump to his feet, swing back his arm, and plant a blow on Vic's jaw. Women started screaming. Tables were tipping over. Someone yelled "Police!" The dance floor became a bedlam of noise and confusion until several constables, hastily summoned, forced their way through the crowd to the two men pummeling each other on the floor.

Vic and Howard Westcott were both put under arrest. They were taken into custody by four husky waiters and led from the dance hall, ignominiously.

As they were pushed and pulled past the table at which Nancy, Ginger and Jerry sat, Howard Westcott looked straight at Nancy.

She saw a trickle of blood running down his cheek.

AFTERMATH -:- "Broke" but Happy -:- Drawn by Nell Brinkley

AFTERMATH—armies of mournful little Christmas trees, lost forever to the mountain-sides where they waved, sweet-smelling, in the sun and storm. Why doesn't the whole world buy live trees—for once in her life the writer does the thing she asks others to do.

Armies of mournful little trees riding on ash wagons!

But that's the only mournful note to the song of Aftermath—after Christmas and New Year holidays.

Every other thing about it is cheerful. Everybody's almost "broke"—but surrounded by suddenly acquired wealth, neckties—women are really learning how to buy them—watches, perfume, gay handkerchiefs, jewelry, pipes, billfolds, tractors, cuff links, engines and trains, evening bags, toy soldiers, gloves, vanity boxes, games—my word.

Full of turkey and cranberries that is if you have rheumatism and can't eat any, most bankrupt and HAPPY!

All of these folks up above but the gentleman in the middle; and if you have a young gentleman in the middle anything like mine, he is all of those things but the last—BANKRUPT. He isn't that. He spent everybody else's money but his own!

Love in Modern Clothes

THOSE whom a jazz band hath joined together are always asking the law to put them asunder.

* * *

Nothing makes a man feel quite so "married" as the discovery that he smells of moth-balls.

* * *

After a bitter parting, there is always hope of a reconciliation; but when a couple "part amicably," love is beyond the help of a pulmotor.

"Dying for love" is no longer popular; but killing for love is becoming such a daily occurrence that you have to keep the shades pulled down to avoid seeing your romantic neighbors shoot each other up.

A woman must reach the point where she can take a man as an abstract quantity, like the weather, and not expect him to be dependable for two days in succession, before she can be reasonably happy with him.

* * *

Somehow, even a tardy husband punctuates a woman's day and gives the clock a meaning for her.

* * *

Many a man who rules a vast office force with a rod of iron is afraid to go home and tell his wife that he forgot to mail her letter or that he took his new stenographer to lunch.

* * *

No doctor and no serums can stimulate the circulation and rejuvenate the heart like a brand new love-affair. When a man reaches the point where he can no longer fall in love or even skid into a mild flirtation, he is on his way to the wheel-chair.

Before twenty-five, the average man's love of pursuit is greater than his love of ANY woman.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Party Preparations

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

How soon before a birthday party should the invitations be sent?

2. What does R. S. V. P. at the end of an invitation mean?

THANK YOU.

ABOUT two weeks. But if you know that your friends are being especially busy socially and you want to "secure the date," send them earlier.

2. Repondez, s'il vous plait. Which, translated, means "Please reply," or "Respond, if you please." And, by the way, only the first letter should be capitalized: R. s. v. p.

Hostess Buys Tickets

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I am going to attend a dinner-dance soon, and would like to ask a young man to escort me. I am at a loss to know whether or not I should pay for the tickets. Will you please tell me which one should pay for them? H.

YOU should. You have appointed yourself hostess, inasmuch as you are extending the invitation, and therefore you should pay for the tickets that admit to the hospitality.

Dining Out

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. Will you kindly tell me if it is correct to eat at a very exclusive club with one's coat on?

2. Also, will you tell me if it is all right to have your male escort, or the waiter, cut your steak if you cannot?

A. J. D.

AT luncheon or informally at dinner, yes. When formally dressed for dinner, one takes off one's wrap.

2. If your hand is "out of order" either the waiter or your escort will cut the steak for you, although, under those conditions, it would probably be wiser to order something that takes less hand-power. If it is the fault of the texture of the steak don't call attention to it by asking assistance in subduing it!

After the Engagement

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. I have just received an engagement ring and I would like to know how soon our parents should meet.

2. Would it be all right if I were to call my future mother-in-law on the telephone and ask her to our home, or should I invite her verbally? Should my mother do this? I also thought about writing a letter to her, but think it would be too formal, as we are very friendly and I go to his home once or twice a week.

3. Shall I introduce my mother to his or vice versa? M. C.

WITH the best of form, as soon as your fiance tells his parents of the engagement, they come at once to call on you officially to welcome you into the family. This call is a very important one, and is supposed to take place within 24 hours after the young man's parents know the happy news.

2. If the parents of your fiance do not make this call I suggest that you have your mother write to them and invite them for a specified evening to come to dine.

3. "Mrs. Robinson, this is my mother" is an excellent way to make this informal introduction. Or, "Mother, this is Mrs. Robinson."

Love's Awakening

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

The Foursome Shopping Orgy Continues

THERE was such joy, amounting almost to rapture, in Mary Harrison's face and voice that I felt repaid and justified for the way I had stretched and embroidered the truth concerning the brown leather jacket.

For neither had I worried over her birthday gift as I had given her to believe, nor planned to spend as much money as I was paying for the jacket. But I suddenly had been convinced that she was not trying to evade Dicky's mandate to spend all the money he had given her on clothes. She simply was scheming to make that gift go as far as possible in replenishing her sadly depleted wardrobe, and the wistful look in her eyes as she put aside the coveted jacket had been too much for me. I would withhold judgment until I could find out her real reason for her unaccountable parsimony, and I would see that she had the jacket for which her girlish soul longed.

"You may send this jacket out," I told the saleswoman, giving her the address while Mary was chokingly trying to thank me and protest against the gift at the same time.

"You're sure that's the jacket you want, Marion," Lillian said briskly, relieving the tension.

"There couldn't be any other one as nice," Marion returned, giving herself a joyous little hug.

"Then suppose you take it off," her mother advised, "unless you expect to wear it home."

"I'd like to," Marion answered promptly, "but the thermometer is a bit high for leather."

She reluctantly pulled herself out of the coat and handed it to the saleswoman. After directing that the two jackets be sent together, Lillian looked at her watch.

"We've just time to go down to the hosiery department," she said. "They usually have very good things here. Then we must get down to the hotel."

"I must spend some of my money there," Mary said. "I need stockings badly."

An elusive memory flitted through my brain. I caught and fixed it, then realized that Mary's nightly laundering of her silk stockings which I had observed had not been due so much to her observance of the advice to wear no pair of silk stockings without immediately laundering them, as to the necessity of keeping perhaps her only pair in good condition.

At the stocking counter where some really alluring bargains were displayed, she hesitated, plainly attracted by some of the delicately beautiful tints. Then she shook her head resolutely.

"I must get the ones which will go with everything," she said half to herself, and ordered three pair of black and three pair of a light beige. When she paid for them she asked to take one of the beige stockings with her, and I knew that she meant to choose her frocks in harmony with the serviceable color of the hose.

"Marion's stocking problem is simple," Lillian said, as with Marion's aid she made swift selections. "The pupils at that school must wear white for all evening occasions, and serviceable wool or cotton hose for school and sports. But as I hate ugly things as much as my daughter does I compromise and get her sport stockings for all other occasions but evening. We'll wait and get the ones for traveling after we've decided on your coat and frock," she told Marion.

"That suits me," Marion returned. "Stockings aren't interesting, anyway. I'm wild to get to the hats."

"Those must wait until after luncheon," her mother said firmly, with another glance at her watch. "And we mustn't delay any longer. We'll barely have time now, Madge, to look over that suite before our men meet us."

Horoscopes

Sunday, January 20.

SUNDAY'S horoscope shows much activity, especially from those in employment of others, who may look for honors, favors or preferment. But it is advised that in all circumstances thre is danger of fraud, misunderstanding, subtlety or duplicity. Sign all writings with precaution.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of advancement or promotion if in employment, and for favors or preferment from those in authority. But there is a menace of subtlety, fraud and misrepresentation, therefore, be careful in all writings and agreements.

A child born on this day is likely to be handicapped by craft, subtlety and misrepresentation, and may lean toward craft and trickery itself, unless properly trained in infancy. Nevertheless, it will stand well with superiors and will succeed in employment and attain good position.

Men's lives like oceans change in shifting tides and ebb from either shore till the strong planet draws them on once more.

Monday, January 21.

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is favorable for change and travel, as well as speculative ventures and affairs of sudden nature. All business relating to inventions, investigations into nature's finer forces, electricity, radio, aeronautics and allied activities are stressed. The mind will be high-keyed and the tongue sarcastic.

Those whose birthday it is are assured a year of success, especially if interested in inventions, investigations, the ingenious and skillful arts and crafts. Speculation and gambling of various natures flourish.

A child born on this day may have a high-keyed mentality and may be original, ingenious, inventive and may be a successful experimenter in nature's finer forces, forces.

How to Keep Well

By Royal S. Copeland, M. D.

Don't Let Disease Catch Up With You

ONE of the things about health that worry me, is mankind's neglect of the accepted things in medicine. When I say this, I mean preventive medicine. To tell the truth I am far less interested in curative medicine than I am in the prevention of disease.

DR. COPELAND

When you are really sick, if you will recall it, almost invariably I say, "Consult your family doctor." Nobody can go far towards the curing of diseases unless a personal examination is possible. To treat an individual case of illness is the business of the trained physician who can take direct charge of the patient.

It is my particular job to keep you away from sickness. I am striving to make you live such a life that it won't be necessary to have a doctor to treat you. My doctor friends won't worry about this, because they know that very few indeed of the human family will follow the path of hygiene far enough to escape everything except the last illness.

I have told you about my old friend who was always saying, "I can resist anything except temptation." The trouble with us is that we enjoy hearing about how to live and how to avoid disease, but we can't quite come to the point of giving up practices which lead to sickness.

Am I right about this? Do you ever eat a lot more than your judgment approves? Do you rob yourself of sleep many a night, knowing all the time how miserable you will be next day? Do you go out to a party in cold weather, wearing garments that are far too gauzy for winter time? You know you do these things and worse. Why? Because you cannot resist the temptation. You can resist anything except temptation.

Palate and mental desire and vanity, to say nothing more of the weaknesses of the flesh, are too much for all of us. We give in many a time, even though we know full well that the fiddler must be paid.

Are we ashamed of ourselves? Secretly we are.

Now how in the world did I ever get into this frame of mind! I started out to warn you against neglecting to do the things that guard against disease.

There are certain conclusions in science that are accepted by almost all informed persons. Vaccination against smallpox is one of these. Inoculations against diphtheria and typhoid fever are others.

Of course, I do not disregard the objections of a small group who insist that such preventive measures are useless and, indeed, harmful. There is no need of redebating this question. We are not in agreement and cannot be.

But, for my part, I am willing to have you go along without attending to these matters. The details I leave to the practicing physicians. It is my single effort to recall to your thought the importance of doing the things which you are confident are necessary, but which for reasons of your own you neglect to do.

Nations, if not empires, were destroyed by malaria. Not until it was found that a certain type of mosquito carried the disease did the world know how to prevent malaria. It is practically unknown today in sections where it used to be the chief enemy of man.

It is just as foolish to neglect those measures that protect the individual against disease as it would be to neglect the extermination of malaria, which is capable of laying low a whole community.

CY YOUNG'S PITCHING RECORDS STAND

BY TURNING in 25 victories for the Pittsburgh baseball club last year, Pitcher Burleigh Grimes placed himself in an ultra-select and restricted circle of slab artists. He became one of the very few hurlers still active in the big show who have won 200 major league games. Prior to 1928, Grimes had 182 triumphs to his credit. His 25 wins last season boosted his total to 207, admitting him to the small set of moundsmen who have reached the double-century mark.

Burleigh Grimes.

There are only three other flingers still wearing major league livery who have won 200 ball games. They are Grover Cleveland Alexander, of the Cardinals; Eppa Jeptha Rixey, of the Reds, and Urban Faber, of the White Sox. All of them passed the line before the 1928 season, so that the Pirate star is the only new addition to the honor roll. Burleigh has not been in the majors as long as the others. He did not break in until the fall of 1916, whereas Alexander entered in 1911, Rixey in 1912, and Faber in 1914.

LIFE-TIME pitching statistics recently compiled show that Alexander leads all the slabmen still in the big show. He has won 364 games and lost 197, for a percentage of .649. The others who have won 60 per cent of their games are Dazzy Vance, won 133 and lost 77, percentage, .633; Waite Hoyt, won 155 and lost 99, percentage, .610; Carl Mays, won 192 and lost 125, percentage, .606, and Arthur Nehf, won 176 and lost 115, percentage, .605.

Grimes has lost 162 games against his 207 victories, making his percentage .561. Rixey is charged with 210 defeats against 232 victories, giving him a mark of .525, while Faber's totals are 216 wins and 155 reverses for a percentage of .582. Only 22 of the pitchers who worked in the majors last year have won 100 games. The only Pittsburgh chucker in the group of century winners, apart from Grimes, is Lee Meadows, who has bagged 187 games and lost 179, for a percentage of .511. To reach the 200 line, Meadows must win 13 games in his attempted comeback this year.

SPEAKING of pitchers who have remained in the game after winning 200 or more major league contests, there is another old Pirate to whom that rare achievement must be credited. That hurler is Wilbur Cooper, who southpawed for the Bucs from the fall of 1912 until the end of the 1924 season.

During his major league career with the Corsairs, Cubs and Tigers, Cooper won 216 games against 178 defeats, for a percentage of .548. Though he is no longer in the majors he worked there for two seasons after he passed the 200 mark in 1924. And at that he is still pitching, being now in the Pacific Coast League.

Wilbur Cooper.

REMARKABLE pitchers come and go, hanging up more or less impressive records for long service and total number of victories, but none of them has ever succeeded in approaching the mark that old Cy Young set for them to shoot at. In 22 years of major league service, Young wn 511 games against 316 defeats, a percentage of .618. The next highest victory total on record is that of Walter Johnson, who won 416 games for Washington in the American League. Christy Mathewson's mark of 372 wins still stands as the National League record, though Alexander needs only nine more victories to beat it. Young pitched three no-hit games, one of them a perfect exhibition in which not a man reached first base against him. In 14 straight seasons he won 20 or more victories. In three straight seasons, 1901-02-03, he hung up 91 victories. In 1904 he pitched 45 consecutive innings without being scored on.

WHETHER the Pirate spring roster, which shows a total of 38 names, since the release of Pitcher Elmer Tutwiler, will be allowed to stand at its present figures or will be further reduced before the training trip, has not been decided definitely, but the fact that Manager Donie Bush made no reference to any additional cuts in a letter received by President Barney Dreyfuss yesterday would appear to indicate that Donie is going to stand pat for the Paso Robles jaunt.

The signed contracts of Pittsburgh players are still coming into Pirate headquarters steadily. President Dreyfuss says that more than 75 per cent of the contracts sent out have already been returned with signatures attached, and that fewer than 10 Buccaneer athletes remain unsigned for 1929.

PERHAPS with a view to ballyhooing the Jack Sharkey-Young Stribling match scheduled for next month at Miami Beach, Fla. —and it certainly needs plenty of steaming up—the promoters are trying to keep the public guessing as to whether or not Jack Dempsey will officiate as referee.

Jack Dempsey.

One day it is announced that the former champion has consented to serve, and the next day his appearance as third man in the ring is reported as doubtful. The general opinion is that if Dempsey intends to fight again next summer—and there is no doubt in the public mind that that is his plan—he can make things look a lot better by turning the refereeing assignment over to some one else.

FOR if Dempsey appears in the Miami Beach ring as referee it will amount to his being almost in a position to pick the man whom he is to fight later for the title. True, the Florida bout is to be a no-decision affair, but there are such things as slow and fast counts, seeing imaginary fouls, overlooking real ones and various other angles from which a referee may influence the outcome of even a contest in which no verdict is to be given. A questionable result, with Dempsey figuring in it, would not help the subsequent bout in which he is to make his come-back.

OF COURSE, it may be argued that the winner of the Sharkey-Stribling number may be defeated later and will not be the fighter chosen to meet Dempsey, but the best guess right now is that the Miami Beach victor, if that none too-popular show is put through at all, will be Dempsey's opponent next summer.

So it will look a great deal better if some one other than Jack himself referees the Sharkey-Stribling meeting. Besides, good fighters do not always make good referees. In fact, the great majority of them fail to shine in that role, though there are some exceptions, such as Kid McPartland and Patsy Haley in the East, and Eddie Kennedy, Al Grayber and others in this neighborhood.

THE popular impression that the poke-check in hockey was invented by Frank (Dutch) Nighbor, of the Ottawa team, is a mistaken

MONEY BERTH PRIZE IN ICE FRAY HERE

GAMES TONIGHT.
PIRATES vs. Detroit at Duquesne Garden (8:30).
Montreal at Ottawa.
New York Rangers at Canadiens.

By CARL W. SHATTO.

Considerable ice will be cut by flying skates and hammered down by falling bodies at Duquesne Garden tonight when Benny Leonard's ice Pirates play host to the Detroit Cougars, the club that is blocking their path to a money berth and a place in the Stanley Cup play-offs. The Michiganders, in third place in the American group standing, arrived here today sporting a lead of four and one-half games over the locals, and Cleghorn's men are well aware of the fact that if they are to get into the ice world series they had better chalk up a couple victories and start moving in that direction without further delay.

The Pirates have indulged in no league competition since last Sunday, but they have not been idle. Manager Cleghoron has put the Bucs through several stiff practice sessions, and today he reports them in prime condition for the crucial fight.

COUGARS WELL EXERCIZED

The Cougars, on the other hand, have been softened up by some of the league's best bruisers during the last fortnight. The bruising Boston Bruins allowed them nothing better than one tie in two engagements, and the speedy Rangers sent them down to 1-0 defeat. The Detroiters have not won a game since January 10, and the Pirates, sad to say, were their victims on that occasion.

But the Cougars' showing in recent games should not be construed as an indication that they are off form. Boston and the rangers are poison to every club in the league.

In three previous meetings with the Leonard skaters this season the Cougars made off with three victories. In no game were the Pirates able to hold them to less than three goals, and Smith, McKinnon and Miller, Pittsburgh guardians, probably will spend a very busy evening trying to check and thwart Detroit attacks. Manager Cleghorn has nominated Smith and McKinnon to start at the defense posts in place of Molway and McCaffery. Their play in Chicago, Sunday, was of a high caliber, according to Cleghorn, and they are well rested for the fray.

BUCS HOPE TO REPEAT

The Detroiters and the Boston Bruins are the only two clubs in the league that the Pirates have neither tied nor beaten in the 1928-29 campaign.

In the Detroit lineup are to be found four of the best goal getters in big-league hockey. Carson Cooper, brilliant wingman, is only one point out of the lead in the individual scoring race, and Lewis, May and Herberts also are listed among the leaders.

A sentational finish enabled the Bucs to beat out the Cougars for a place in the play-offs last season. The locals are confident that they can make history repeat, and the Cougars are not blind to the fact that the Bucs are dangerous. With so much at stake, tonight's game gives promise of developing into the fastest and most hard fought of the campaign. The probable lineup:

Pirates.		Cougars.
Miller	G	Dolson
McKinnon	R.D.	Noble
Smith	L.D.	Brydge
Frederickson	C	Lewis
Darragh	R.W.	Cooper
Milks	L.W.	Connors

Pirate spares: Drury, Cotton, White, Holway, McCaffedy and McCurry; Cougar spares: Traub, Hay, Brophy, Aurie, Herberts.

Fake Tickets Nabbed At High School Game

HAZELTON, Pa., Jan. 19.—(AP.)—Police today continued their investigation into the printing and sale of spurious admission tickets for the Hazeltown-Allentown High School basketball game of the Eastern Pennsylvania Scholastic League which the locals won, 52 to 20, last night. The tickets were exact duplicates of the original except that they were just slightly larger. All that were presented at the doors were lifted by officers. The printing of the tickets has been traced to a local shop whose owners are co-operating with the authorities to run down the guilty parties.

Brice Captures Miami Tourney

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 19.—Harcourt M. Brice, local municipal links ace, won the annual mid-winter amateur championship tournament here yesterday, defeating Lee Chase, former New York state titleholder, by 1 up, over the 36-hole route. At one stage Brice was 5 up.

C. M. Scott, of Pittsburgh, was a competitor. He was eliminated in the second round of match play in the second 16.

WISCONSIN CAPTAIN OUT

MADISON, Wis., Jan. 19.—(AP.)—Because he competed in the annual East-West charity football game at San Francisco, December 29, Rube Wagner, captain of Wisconsin's 1928 football team and a star weight man on the track squad, has been banned from further college athletic competition.

Duquesne Meets Thiel Five Tonight

Chick Davies' Duquesne University passers battle the Thiel College cagemen at Greenville tonight in a game in which the Bluffites hope to renew the winning streak so abruptly halted recently by Westminster.

The contest will mark the second Tri-State Conference battle for each team, both having lost their first engagements in league competition.

The dope is in favor of the Dukes returning with victory in hand, although it has been conceded the Thiel team is strong enough to score an upset.

Last year Thiel rallied after trailing by 12 points until at the finish there was only a one-point margin of advantage.

STRIB STOPS MALAY

NORFOLK, Va., Jan. 19.—(AP.)—Young Stribling of Macon, Ga., knocked out Art Malay, of Chicago here last night in the third round of what was scheduled to have been a 10-round battle.

IN LINE FOR PITT CAPTAINCY

JOE DONCHESS

TOBY UANSA

Uansa, the clever-running halfback from McKees Rocks, is the "dark horse" in the race for the captaincy of the Pitt football eleven for next fall. The election will be a feature of the Panthers' annual banquet at the Schenley Hotel this evening.

MAYBERRY BEATS RODGERS IN PACKED ARENA

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor.

BOXING in the downtown section came back into its own again last night with a bang-up show in the Moose Temple under the auspices of Francis Flynn, of McKeesport, proprietor of Flynn's gym, just around the corner from the arena. A capacity crowd jammed the small auditorium at popular prices and it was necessary to stop selling $1 general admission seats in the balcony well before the bouts got under way. Approximately 1,200 fans witnessed the battles and greeted the new enterprise enthusiastically, demonstrating that, even as in the days of the old City Hall arena, downtown fights are THE thing locally.

Jackie Rodgers, Negro bantamweight of the North Side, and Howard Mayberry, veteran of Donora, were the main-louters, and Mayberry carried off the decision by virtue of several spurts over the 10-round journey.

They started off tamely and there was nothing to choose between them during the first two rounds. Then Mayberry cut loose in the third and hit Jackie at will. In the fourth, he loafed and Rodgers showed to advantage and evened up matters.

REFEREE DEMANDS ACTION

Another spurt by Mayberry gave him the fifth round by a shade, and, before the sixth round got under way, Referee Al Grayber ordered both to inject more action into their work. Mayberry started off by nailing Jackie with two hard rights, only to get the same back later in the round and lose the honors to Jackie's forcing.

The seventh round was the first decisive session of the mill and it belonged to Rodgers. Mayberry slipped to his knees coming out of a clinch, and, when he arose, Rodgers went to work on his body and slowed him down, after which he drove home solid blows to the head with both fists. The eighth saw the tide turn again as Mayberry came back to life and outpunched Rodgers as cleanly as the latter had outscored him in the preceding session. In the ninth, Mayberry added even further to his lead, outclassing Rodgers in all of the fighting.

Rodgers began to rally in the final round, but Mayberry got him under control and paced his way to the edge in that heat and victory in the bout. Both judges voted for him, while Referee Grayber called it a draw. Both boxers scaled 117¾ pounds at 3 p. m.

WELCH ESCAPES KNOCKOUT

Teddy Welch, of McKeesport, obviously not in tip-top fighting condition, bluffed his way out of a knockout at the fists of Jimmy Belmont, of Braddock, in the fifth round of the semi-final and fought off his opponent throughout the sixth to finish the bout on his feet. Belmont led in every round but the third, which went to Welch by a shade, and the fourth, which was even. In the fifth, he weakened Welch with a series of right uppercuts and then sent him spinning to the floor and grabbing for the ropes with a right to the jaw. Welch started to get up and then went down for nine. Although in bad shape, he stalled through the last half-minute by weaving, bobbing and head-slipping as Belmont sought in vain to knock him out. After the bout, Belmont claimed he broke his right hand early in the sixth round. Belmont weighed 148 pounds and Welch 144½.

Mike Hogan, of the North Side, was technically knocked out by Johnny Smackey, of Canonsburg, in the third round of the second bout, Referee Grayber stopping the affair with Mike helpless after having been floored for a count of seven. The finish came suddenly after two tame rounds. Hogan weighed 135¼ pounds and Smackey 137.

George Tomosky, of Trafford City, 119½ pounds, bested Sammy Paris, of the Hill, 120, who was making his professional debut, in the six-round opener, a slugging bee and the best bout for action on the card.

Al Grayber refereed all of the bouts, Frank (Bull) Brown and Frank Ferris were the judges. Ray Eberle, of Aliquippa, went over big in his local debut as an announcer.

LEO LOMSKI VICTOR OVER BRADDOCK

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—(AP.)—Leo Lomski, slashing light-heavyweight from Aberdeen, Washington, battered out a decision over James J. Braddock, of Jersey City in the 10-round feature match of a stirring card at Madison Square Garden. Braddock, who recently jumped into fame by knocking out Tuffy Griffiths and fracturing Pete Latzo's jaw, scaled 172 pounds, Lomski 172½.

Lomski won by forcing the battle every inch of the way, although he was battered considerably and staggered frequently along the route. Jimmy unleashed a right in the third round that slashed a deep gash in Lomski's left eyebrow. In each round thereafter, Braddock kept a trickle of blood coursing down the westerner's cheek. There were no knockdowns.

By continually keeping the jump on the easterner and dropping into close quarters with left hooks to the body, Lomski drew much of the poison from Braddock's crushing right hand. James J. was loath to lead at all times, never forced the milling, and failed to take advantage of the occasional right smashes that dizzied the coast boy.

In a 10-round semi-final, Charley Belanger, Canadian light heavyweight, knocked out Nando Tassi, of Italy, in the fourth round. Belanger flattened the Italian with one right to the body in one minute, 40 seconds of the round.

Amateur Boxing Confab Reaches Court Today

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Jan. 19.—In the Fayette County courts will be fought the legal battle to determine whether the Pennsylvania State Boxing Commission has the right and power to interfere with amateur exhibitions and order state police or other officers to stop the bouts. Attorney E. J. McDaniel, who has been engaged by the Al Sands Athletic Club, declared he was uncertain as to whether a suit for damages would be brought, but was certain that application would be made for an injunction to protect another show to be held January 30 in Uniontown in defiance of the acts of the Boxing Commission.

Application for the injunction will be made today and then will come the court hearing which is expected to settle the matter for the entire state. On this decision will rest the fate of amateur boxing in Pennsylvania.

WESTMINSTER BEATEN BY GENEVA

By JESS CARVER

Not North, not South, not East but West, by golly, Virginia, served the University of Pittsburgh Panthers, 1928 National collegiate champions, their first defeat on the Stadium pavilion floor since the middle of the 1927 season here last night. Today the Golden Cats are smarting under the sting of a 40-35 setback, administered by the best West Virginia basketball team that ever played in Pittsburgh.

Strangely enough, it was West Virginia that defeated Pitt the last time the Panthers stumbled here two years ago.

There is no alibi for last night's licking for Pitt. The Mountaineers presented a well-drilled team, strong defensively and dashing and fire-eating on the offense. Led by the accurate tossing little Sleepy Glenn, who caged seven field goals, six of 'em in the first half, and bulwarked and sparked by sensational play on the part of Trueheart Taylor, the boys from Morgantown smacked down the Panthers and made them like it.

Twice the Mountaineers came from seven points in the rear to tie and then pass the Panthers, and in the dying moments of the game, with the score standing 36-35 in their favor, they nipped a threatening Pitt rally in the bud by putting on extra pressure on their own offensive, field goals by Hagberg and Taylor putting them safely out in front. The score at the half was 21-21.

HYATT HIGH SCORER

Even in defeat, standing out in the gloom and haze that permeated the Stadium as the gallant Panthers toppled, stood Charley Hyatt, leading scorer with seven field goals and four fouls, striving mightily to turn the tide in the favor of his mates.

Charley Hyatt, who after the game, pleaded with me to "pan" him, as he called it, in the Sun-Telegraph today, declaring with tears in his eyes that "it was my fault we lost." Hyatt was never a greater star than he was last night, and the first man to say so after the game was fair and square Francis Stadsvold.

Last night's defeat cannot be blamed on any one person. Praise for a gallant Mountaineer five, not blame for a fighting lot of Panthers is the need of today.

COVENANTERS WIN

If you regard the Pitt-West Virginia result in the light of an upset, how do you look at the Geneva-Westminster game?

Ken Loeffler's Covenanters are perched securely at the top of the Conference heap this fine day with three games won and none lost as the direct result of having beaten the United Presbyterian defending champions at Beaver Falls last night, 18 to 15, in a five-minute overtime period.

With the score tied at 14-14 at the end of the regular 40 minutes of play, clearly demonstrated that they have the stuff of which champions are made by annexing four big points in the extra time, meanwhile holding the U. P.'s to one.

This basketball situation is becoming tough for the boys with the weak hearts. They all know what defeat is now except West Virginia, Wash-Jeff and Bethany and the last two mentioned havn't played as yet.

PITT TO ELECT 1929 GRID CAPTAIN TONIGHT

THE University of Pittsburgh will pull a belated curtain over the 1928 football season at the Schenley Hotel tonight on the occasion of the annual gridiron dinner. If that isn't a signal for cheers, what is?

A heavy evening, from the first splash of the strained gumbo to the firing of the final bun and the passing out of the final, well, we'll say cigar, has been planned by the committee in charge. There are just the right number of good speakers on the program, six. A captain for 1929 will be elected as the big feature of the evening.

Dr. W. S. McIlroy, class of '17, will preside, with Carlton G. Ketchum acting in the capacity of toastmaster. The invocation will be offered by Dr. S. B. Linhart, secretary of the university.

The list of speakers includes Dr. John Bain Sutherland, head coach of football; G. Dixon Shrum, member of the alumni council; Alex Fox and Dr. Carl Wallace Petty, LL. D., '24, pastor of the First Baptist Church.

Announcement of the lettermen for the past season and the election of the captain for 1929, will take place immediately following Capt. Fox's talk. Ray Montgomery, Joe Donchess and Toby Uansa have been mentioned prominently in connection with this honor.

Members of the varsity and freshmen football and basketball squads will be honor guests. The Pitt band, 99 strong, will furnish the instrumental entertainment, aside from the noise the boys make hitting that gumbo.

SCANLON, SPORT PIONEER, DIES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—(AP.)—Michael D. Scanlon, pioneer sport figure, whose association with baseball began in 1866, is dead here at the age of 81. In 1876, while in charge of the Washington Nationals, he bought Connie Mack, now manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, and three other players from the Hartford club for $600. The quartet made the Nationals a formidable club in the days when free-for-all fights at games were not uncommon and when promoters were timid about charging admission.

Mustered out of the Union army at the close of the Civil War, Scanlon met Arthur P. Gorman, later United States Senator from Maryland, and their mutual love for a game then generally played on deserted lots led to the organization of the Washington Nationals. The late Senator Gorman played right field and in addition was treasurer of the club.

It was Scanlon who led to the construction of a park where the American League stadium now stands. He remained identified with the Washington team until it entered the American League. The man who has been called "the daddy of Washington baseball," fell on the street recently and the injury brought on an illness that ended in death yesterday.

FARLEY SUCCEEDS RICKARD AS TROPHY TRUSTEE

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—(AP.)—James A. Farley, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, has been named to fill the vacancy left among the trustees of the Muldoon-Tunney trophy symbol of the world's heavyweight championship, by the death of Tex Rickard.

With Herbert Bayard Swope as spokesman for Bernard Gimbel, former Judge Jeremiah F. Mahoney, and John Mc. Bowman, other members of the commission in charge of the $10,000 trophy, the trustees announced their plans for the naming of a new champion, determined the former champions whose names will be inscribed on the emblem, and passed resolutions of regret at the death of Rickard.

The axiom that a "championship may never be awarded, but must always be won" will guide the trustees in the naming of a champion to succeed the retired Gene Tunney, Swope said. The former champion and William Muldoon, 83-year-old "solid man" of boxing, established the trophy when Tunney retired from the ring last summer.

The trustees showed no inclination to accept Jack Dempsey as the champion in view of Tunney's retirement and his knockout of Jack Sharkey, as move suggested unofficially some time ago by Muldoon. Instead the trustees decided that there is no champion at present and will be none as far as they are concerned until some figure is generally recognized by the public as the new titleholder.

SCELLO, UNGLO IN SEMI-FINAL

Phil Scello, of McKeesport, and Jack Unglo, of Etna, have been matched to box the eight-round semi-final to the Dominick Profio-Young Rudy bout at McKeesport next Thursday night, promoter Jim McGirr announced today. They will meet at 150 pounds. The main-bouters will scale at or under 143 pounds.

Two six-round bouts will complete the card.

Al Singer, New York featherweight sensation, boxes the 10-round semi-final to the Harry Blitman-Georgie Balduc fight at the Arena in Philadelphia Monday night. His opponent will be Sammy Novis. Vince Dundee and Young Ketchel will appear in another 10-rounder.

The Tiger Thomas-George Courtney bout postponed a week ago, will be fought in New York Monday night.

SCRIBE MATCHMAKER

FRANKIE GENARO BEATEN

BUFFALO, Jan. 19. — (AP.) — Tommy Paul, youthful Buffalo bantam, defeated Frankie Genaro, recognized by the N. B. A. as flyweight champion in a six-round bout last night. Paul weighed 118½; Genaro, 115.

RICKARD and the RING

By JACK DEMPSEY,
World's Greatest Ring Idol

Protected by Tex.

I ALWAYS was just "a little bit of a feller" to Tex.

That attitude quickly developed into a feeling toward me such as an indulgent father would have for a son, and through all the years Tex gave me a "break" in everything. In 1926, when I fought Tunney the first time, and in 1927, when I mixed it with Sharkey and Tunney, Tex and I had no actual agreement as to my end. And this at a time when the public assumed that our negotiations were concluded.

Tex always would ask:

"How much do you think you are worth?"

Sometimes I'd mention my terms; oftener I didn't. But aways Tex would say to me:

"Now, Jack, you leave that whole thing open until I get around to it and I'll see that you get a square deal."

And this ever was my portion from Tex. He actually gave me more for the first Tunney fight than I had expected and I got around $50,000 more than I hoped for from the Sharkey battle. For Tex, before we reached a point where we signed actual articles, would get his fingers on the public pulse and sort of "tune in" on its attitude toward the fight and then, if it looked like a sellout or anything near it, he would give me the absolute limit.

When I attempted expression of appreciation for his generosity, Tex always would halt me with:

"Never mind that, little feller, you don't owe me any thanks. You're worth every dime I'm giving you. You have made plenty of money for me and the Madison Square Garden stockholders and those fellers are the kind of sportsmen that want to see every man get what he's worth."

FINANCIAL GUARDIAN

In the years after 1925, when I started handling my own affairs, Tex was my financial guardian and my business advisor.

"Lots of fellers in this racket," he used to say, "that'll shed a lot of tears to get some of your money—and there's a lot of them that'll do some tricking if they can get it by getting your sympathy all excited. Now don't pay any attention to them. When I give you your money you hustle to the bank with it right away and after that we'll sit down and figure out some good way to invest that money. Don't go to gambling with it. The feller that tries to beat the house can't win. I know and you can't do any good for yourself playing stocks that are speculations."

As soon as pay-off day came Tex would hunt me up and hand me a list that embraced the names of some gilt-edged bonds and safe stocks.

"I've been talking with some of the brokers that are stockholders in the Garden, telling them about you and telling them they had to give me the names of some safe bonds and stocks for you to buy," he'd say. "Here they are. Now go out and buy!"

And I did.

Practically every investment I made in recent years was at the suggestion of Tex and every purchase I made was good and it was profitable. The advice of Tex made around $100,000 for me and his advice likewise saved me nearly the same amount.

Because Tex never got away from the notion that I was just a little bit of a "feller" and because he always was fatherly toward me, he forced me to promise, after I began handling my own affairs and my own money, that I would do no investing in stocks or bonds until he had placed the okay upon it. Several times "tips" were given to me. I passed them on to Tex for decision. He had a dozen and one connections in the stock market and he promptly would get a consensus of opinion from his brokerage pals and would tell me "yes" or "no," and his rulings were infallible. Every security he approved increased in value and every one that he tabooed took a flop.

Only once did Tex and I "jam." That was on a day when he came to me with eyes blazing and actually threatened to beat me up. If I hadn't laughed it off I guess he would have started socking me, for Tex was that kind. His daring and his courage and his faith in himself are so great and so wonderful that he would have taken on all the Dempseys in the U. S. A., if he figured there was just provocation for it. The incident was the outgrowth of a little generosity on my part. A friend of mine had a sad story to tell and told it. He needed money—plenty of it. If I couldn't help him he would have to jump off a few docks, or drink poisoned tea or something like that, so I slipped him the cash oar and Tex found out about it. The fellow, it seems, wasn't in quite the tough spot that he had described. He was spending the money in "high joints" fashion and boasting where he got it.

GIVEN "BAWLING OUT"

"Didn't I tell you not to go loaning any money?" Tex fired at me.

"Sure, but—"

"There ain't any 'buts' on that loan stuff, dija hear me?" he cut in. "I know—I've gone through it. It has cost me $500,000 to fall for hard luck stories, and if I hear about you doing any more loaning I'll knock hell out of you. You've got to quit loaning money or they'll be giving benefits for you before you're 40."

I didn't stop slipping money to some pals after that who were in hard luck. I used to be broke myself and and I've never forgotten what a lot it means to a fellow at such times to borrow a few dollars. But I always made the boys promise not to tell Tex. It was bad enough to lose a couple of decisions to Tunney. But to be spanked or kayoed by my foster father of ringdom—well, that would have been a story, eh, wot?

Dreyfuss Is Invited to League Meeting

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., Jan. 19.—Connie Mack, Barney Dreyfuss, Wilbert Robinson, Clark Griffith, Emil Fuchs and Phil Ball, moguls of the Philadelphia Athletics, Pittsburgh Pirates, Brooklyn Dodgers, Washington Senators, Boston Braves and St. Lous Browns, respectively, today were sent invitations by J. Vincent Jamison, Jr., president of the Blue Ridge League, pioneer of class D baseball circuits, to attend the annual meeting of the league in this city on January 29.

President Jamison's plan is to explain the inner workings of his league to the big-time leaders, hoping to interest two of them sufficiently to buy the only two franchises in the Blue Ridge which are not already under major league ownership, those of Hagerstown and Martinsburg. The St. Louis Cardinals, Cleveland Indians, Detroit Tigers and New York Yankees either own or have working agreements with Waynesboro, Frederick, Hanover and Chambersburg, respectively.

CAGNI BIG STAR ON KEYSER TEAMS

By JULIUS LEVIN.

John Cagni, former star of the Broadway Club of Beechview, is playing a brilliant game for two teams operating in Keyser, W. Va., where he is enrolled at the Potomac State Normal School.

Besides holding down a guard position on the school quintet, Cagni is a member of the Baltimore and Ohio team. Neither team has suffered a defeat so far this season, due in a large measure to the fine defensive play of the Beechview boy.

The local boy has made a deep impression on the followers of basketball in Keyser and he is being hailed as the finest guard ever to appear in that district.

DRIBBLES

Two local teams appear in big games on foreign floors tonight. Immaculate Heart playing St. Stanislaus in Buffalo, while the Morrys of Braddock clash with the Buicks in Scottdale.

Kingsley House appears at the Y. M. H. A. and Community House at East Liberty in the two Institutional League games carded tonight. The reserve teams of all institutionals involved meet in the preliminaries.

The Millers meet the Wotherspoons and the Ackermans oppose Boot Shop in the Homestead District League tonight.

The Mangans have scored six straight victories in the P. & O. League, one of the reasons they are resting up with the leaders.

Eddie Jesko stands out as one of the best forwards in the P. & O. League. The Mangans' flash came through with nine baskets against the Conleys Thursday night:

First U. P. Community House will play the Monty Motors Five of Leetsdale on the Community House floor tonight. A preliminary game will be staged between two junior teams.

Canzoneri Stops Santiago in Fifth

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—(AP.)—Tony Canzoneri, of New York, former world's featherweight champion, knocked out the sensational Young Cuban, Armando Santiago, conqueror of Joey Sangor, in the fifth round of a savagely fought battle in the Coliseum last night. The match drew a capacity crowd of more than 10,000 with gate receipts around $42,000. Canzoneri weighed 129, with the Cuban scaling 128.

Eddie Shea, Chicago, challenger for the featherweight title, scored his second knockout since submitting to an operation for a damaged right hand, when he stopped Lou Bloom of Columbus, O., in the fifth round.

FEW HOLDOUTS EXPECTED IN MAJOR LEAGUES

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

MAJOR league holdouts for this year will not constitute a bumper crop, judging by early returns from contracts recently sent out.

According to the regulations of the sport, the magnates must forward the documents on or before February 15.

The Giants already have the signed documents of most of the athletes on the club roster, according to information furnished by Secretary James Tierney.

The Pittsburgh officials report a big return on contracts and other clubs apparently are meeting with fair success.

The local team, however, may not be entirely free of holdouts. At least one star has not signed for the coming season. Nevertheless, the Pirate officials say they anticipate no trouble in getting all members of the squad lined up. Players must all be signed to take part in Spring training, if the rules are observed.

Teams that made big profits in 1928 naturally will feel inclined to share their good luck with the boys of the diamond. So you can look out for some pay boosts in Chicago and, perhaps, in New York, although the Giants did not draw well at home.

The Cardinal management is not noted for paying big salaries, but the team made a good profit last season.

The salary roll of the Pirates is said to be one of the heaviest in the league. The Giants, the Cubs, the Reds and the Dodgers also pay out princely amounts each month to the players.

GLENDALE PLAYS PITTSBURGH

TODAY'S GAMES.

National Amateur Cup.
Glendale at Pittsburgh (Homewood).

BEAVER VALLEY LEAGUE.
Harmony at Ambridge Ind.
American Bridge Works at New Brighton.

By TOM BIRKS.

Today's soccer activities will center around the replayed national amateur cup game at Homewood, where the Glendale and Pittsburgh elevens will do their stuff. The first session at Glendale two weeks ago found the contestants going into an overtime period, and it must be admitted that the juniors gave the Ekequist aggregation quite a scare.

Today the fans are naturally giving Pittsburgh the edge, for, without question, any American League outfit should be capable of stopping a junior team. But soccer, like every other sport, does not run true to form, and the upsets create real interest in the game.

But Pittsburgh has a keen eye for the Cleveland Sparta game that goes to the winner, and the Blue and White will be out doing its stuff to land the Buckeye Bohemians in the Homewood bowl. The game will be called at 2:30 o'clock.

In the Beaver Valley, two games are scheduled. Both hold more than passing interest. Ambridge will meet Harmony, and these rivals are expected to give the fans a hectic session. At New Brighton the American Bridge team, led by Mills and Gibson, will tackle the New Brighton entry.

one, according to Tommy Gorman, manager of the New York Americans.

Gorman says that the poke-check was introduced by Jack Walker, of the Seattle 1917 world champions, and that Nighbor learned the trick from Walker while both were members of the Toronto club. Walker played for Detroit last season and is now on the Pacific coast.

Frank Nighbor.

INCIDENTALLY, the poke-check has not escaped the attention of those who are clamoring for changes in the hockey rules in order to produce more scoring. Some of them want to eliminate the poke-check and the hook-check and would impose a minor penalty upon a player who touches the ice with any part of his body such as a hand or knee, as often happens when a skater stretches far out to poke-check. One of the men back of this idea is Eddie Livingston, of Toronto. He contends that the poke and hook-checks make combination play impossible. Some of the other suggestions for changes in the rules are the removal of the blue line, elimination of the forward pass, and the dropping of the system of crediting one point to each team taking part in a tie game.

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

by HAVEY J. BOYLE

THE last fire engine in the city fire department will soon pass out of existence. It is now in the engine house in Carson street, near South Twenty-first street. It will be replaced by what we firemen call a triple combination unit.

There is something about fire houses that captures the imagination of young and old and to veteran firemen there is nothing more delightful than dropping into a fire house, taking a seat around the stove, and discussing firemen and their affairs.

One of the most entertaining recollections, for instance, is the time I went to Charleroi some months ago to mingle with some of the volunteers who were holding a convention there. There was a midway and the Greater Sheasley shows was a special attraction. We all had a swell time.

But I digress from the city department.

In the fire house in Carson street Sidewalks had a long talk with Capt. Tom Holland and T. J. Hunkele. Here is what Capt. Hunkele said:

"The last horses in the department were replaced with motor apparatus in 1919. The speed of the auto displaced Dobbin without much argument, except on the sentimental side. Firemen had, of course, an attachment for the horses. Yes, the horses knew what it was all about when an alarm rang. But some of them at times would grow lazy and had to be given a thwack to spring out. What became of the old fire horses? Well, some were transferred to other city departments while others were shot and fed to the animals at the zoo."

AT THIS point in the conversation an alarm sounded and the firemen moved quickly and methodically to their posts. Naturally, there was a little disappointment here because all the firemen were on the main floor when the gong sounded. I was hoping that I'd see a few of the boys slide down the pole from the second floor, adjusting their suspenders as they slid down, but as this was around 5 o'clock of a Sunday evening and since it is a peculiarity of the South Side firemen, at least, that they have their suspenders adjusted and in place at that time, and because as a rule they spend most of their time on the main floor rather than on the second floor, I missed that thrill. However, it was pretty good at that to hear the old alarm and to see the fire laddies move to their job. It happened that the alarm came from the Hill district and the fire being of brief duration, the South Side men did not have to go out.

While there is a bit of a void since the three-horse hitch is no longer seen as the helmeted men hang onto the side of the trucks, Capt. Hunkele assures me the kids still get a great thrill out of the engine house. Fond mothers sometimes are dragged in by the small hands of little Rollo who positively will not move away until he is allowed to climb up on the driver's seat of the fire engine.

* * *

FIREMEN, Capt. Holland said, go in now for pinochle more than the time-honored engine house game, checkers. Tom Reynolds, a former fireman, was champion among the old-time checker players in the department, but he is now retired. There is practically no bridge played.

Capt. Holland didn't tell me, but I knew from history that when a younger man the captain could run 15 in pool as slick as a whistle, first at the Gibbons' Club and later at the Harps, another club of the upper "Sou" Side.

AVALON BUS EXTENSION SOUGHT

An effort is to be made by officials and business men of Avalon to have the bus service soon to be instituted by the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company extended to that borough.

Present plans of the company call for ending the line at Jackson street, Bellevue. The route was approved by the Pennsylvania Public Service Commission, company officials say, and any change must be authorized by that body.

A committee will be named to present the claims of the Avalon residents to the company with a view to have the original route changed.

BANNER CLASS IN DORMONT

One of the largest mid-year graduating classes in the history of Hillsdale Avenue School, Dormont, is scheduled to begin studies in Dormont High School next month. The graduating students are:

WIDOWS' AID REPORTED LAGGING

An increasing number of families in Pennsylvania eligible to receive aid under the Mothers' Assistance Act are on the waiting list, according to Miss Blanche E. Stauffer, acting state supervisor of the Mothers' Assistance Fund. At the close of the fiscal year in 1928 the number of mothers unprovided for was 1,961, and later figures for the various counties, especially in Western Pennsylvania, indicate a marked increase over the state statistics, which were compiled May 31, 1928.

As a result of insufficient funds to care for the eligible list, the county poor authorities and charitable organizations in the larger cities have been called upon to assist in providing shelter and food for indigent widowed mothers who are struggling to rear their children in their own homes. In Allegheny County in May, 1928, the waiting list was 269, whereas today it is 341 families, according to Miss Rose Porter, executive secretary of the local Mothers' Assistance Fund Board.

WAITING LIST FIGURES

Miss Stauffer, at a meeting of the Allegheny County board yesterday, gave the state's 1928 waiting-list figures for other Western Pennsylvania counties, as follows: Washington, 68; Westmoreland, 110; Beaver, 44; Armstrong, 25; Butler, 4; Indiana, 23; Lawrence, 13; Greene, 6; Fayette, 57; Somerset, 23; Cambria, 158. In Lackawanna County, she stated, 217 are receiving aid, while 271 are on the waiting list. In the state, 5,398 are receiving aid.

Mrs. Marcus Spiro, president of the Allegheny County board, pointed out that the waiting list is maintained in strict chronological order and that no amount of influence can effect any change in this rule. Nearly every month beneficiaries are dropped from the active list and other families are added in regular order from the waiting list. On January 1 the Allegheny County board dropped 21 families from its rolls. Of these, 13 families had succeeded in getting sufficient income to be self-supporting; five widows remarried, one died, and in another family the last child passed the age of 16 years. Aid is given only when a widow has children under 16. In one family aid was withdrawn because of bad living conditions.

CHARITY BOARDS ACT

Of the 341 families on the Allegheny County waiting list, those outside the city are reported to the county poor board, Mrs. Spiro said. Families in the city are cared for through the Associated Charities, the Catholic Charities and the Jewish Federation of Charities.

It is declared that the mothers' assistance fund act was passed to assist widowed mothers to keep their fatherless children together, to rear them around their own hearthstone and to save them from the pauperizing influence of support from alms, and in turning cases over to charity the ends of the law are defeated.

BROKE UP BRIDGE PARTY, WIFE SAYS, SEEKS DIVORCE

A charge that her husband drove her women bridge party guests out of their home in Alderson street, Squirrel Hill, at 10 p. m., so that he could use the room for a men's poker party until 3 a. m., was one of the allegations made by Mrs. Margaret Covert, now of 5610 Northumberland street, in the trial of her suit for divorce before Judge Harry H. Rowan, in Common Pleas Court.

About a dozen young society matrons and girl friends were in the midst of their game at the bridge party when he unceremoniously ordered them to get out, said Mrs. Covert.

At another time she returned from a trip to Atlantic City and found the dining room table littered with glasses in which remained the dregs of gin, indicating he had held a drinking party, she said. Cursing her during a dance at an Oakland fraternity house and hitting her on the head with a waste-paper basket were among other bits of evidence regarding their marital difficulties volunteered by the wife.

The husband did not contest the suit, in which cruelty is charged. The couple were married June 1, 1927. Mrs. Covert was Margaret Ritchie, daughter of the late Attorney John L. Ritchie.

Wife Balks at Giving Up Bed To Dog

A claim that her husband at times insisted on a big police dog occupying the bed in which she slept, was only one of several charges of cruelty and indignities made by Mrs. Anna Reiser, 270 Amberson street, in a bill of particulars filed in her divorce suit against John Reiser, an employe at the Dundee Farms, Sewickley Heights.

She says he always forced her to work as a servant at the homes where he was employed, and, instead of providing her a home, forced her to occupy servants' quarters with him. Besides frequently calling her vile names, she says he occasionally knocked her unconscious with his fist.

Mr. Hoover has conferred with about everybody there is in regard to work but Sandino and Peggy Joyce. He leaves for Florida Monday to draw straws for his cabinet.

If California can't land Mr. Coolidge after March 4th, why, we will just have to console ourselves with Aimee and Ben Turpin.

Morgan in Utilities Early, Says Insull; Big Oil Event

By B. C. FORBES

SAMUEL INSULL, the utility giant of Chicago and several surrounding states, sends this column interesting inside facts about the late J. P. Morgan's very early connection with the electric light and power industry.

Mr. Insull's statements are inspired by what appeared here the other day concerning J. P. Morgan & Co.'s public sponsorship, under its own name, of a utility enterprise. It was then explained that Morgan interests had been indirectly identified with the industry, but that this marked the firm's first direct launching of a utility company. Mr. Insull says:

"I read your article headed 'Morgan Firm at Last in Utilities Field.' Instead of being last in the utilities field they were first.

"Messrs. J. Piermont Morgan, J. Hood Wright and E. P. Fabbri were the three leading partners of Messrs. Drexel, Morgan & Co. in 1881, and were largely interested in the Edison Electric Light Company, the company that owned the patents and supplied the money for Mr. Edison's early experiments; and they were largely instrumental in financing the original Central Station in New York, which was built by the Edison Electric Illuminating Company of New York.

"If my memory serves me correctly, the late Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan was the largest stockholder and was responsible for the early financing of the Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Boston.

"If time and space permitted I could tell a great many stories of the assistance rendered to the infant Edison electric light and power industry and to Mr. Edison himself in the early 80's by the banking firm of Messrs. Drexel, Morgan & Co."

VERY influential interests are organizing a gigantic company, or trust, to acquire oil stocks, and on occasion, to take over blocks of stocks from going oil companies. I understand that only dividend-paying stocks are to be purchased.

Private reports have it that Arthur W. Cutten, W. C. Durant and their associates are heavily interested and that Blair & Company partners will be identified with the management. It is the firm conviction of those behind this ambitious new organization that good oil stocks will do better than any other group within the next few years. Insiders discourage the idea that fireworks in oil shares will be immediately witnessed. They are looking considerably ahead.

There are hints that Sinclair contemplates starting dividends, thus making it eligible for purchase, as certain influential financiers look very favorably upon this company's prospects.

CANADA is watching the tariff deliberations in Washington very closely and critically. Dissatisfaction with America's tariff policy is rising. Sir Herbert Holt, at the annual meeting of the Royal Bank of Canada, pointed out that Canada is not only the best customer of the United States but buys more from us than any other single market buys from any other country. Canadians therefore feel that everything possible should be done to enable them to sell to us in return.

BIG events are pending in the aircraft industry. National City Bank interests are unofficially behind a company that aspires to become the "General Motors of the Air." This company, Boeing Air and Transport, has already acquired other allied concerns, and, I understand, has still more ambitious acquisitions in mind. The founder, W. E. Boeing, has built up a great reputation on the Pacific Coast—and also, it is declared, the most extensive commercial flying service in the country.

How rapidly flying has entered into everyday American life is emphasized by what John N. Willys did this week. A fleet of more than 30 airplanes left Toledo carrying the biggest shipment of air mail in history; 700,000 pieces of "Whippet" mail, weighing 30,000 pounds, routed to every state. The mail planes were accompanied by 20 Army pursuit planes.

Mr. Willys feels that this demonstration should reassure the American people of what could be done should any great emergency or national crisis arise. Think of what the American Red Cross, for example, could accomplish by employing scores of airships should a terrible disaster befall.

We certainly are becoming air-minded.

THE bulls still profess faith in their ability to keep the speculative pot boiling.

STEEL ADVANCE CONTINUES TO NEW HIGH

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—(AP.)—The stock market opened irregularly this morning, although the main trend continued upward. The opening sale of U. S. Steel was 4,000 shares at 182, a new high record for all time, and a gain of 1¾ points. American International mounted to 2⅝, Allied Chemical 2 and Montgomery Ward 1½ points. Greene Cananea, however, fell back 3 points and Packard 1.

Strong buying came into the market during the first hour, when transaction of 5,000 to 10,000 shares were recorded in nearly a dozen issues. U. S. Steel was promptly pushed up to the unprecedented level of 184, an overnight gain of 3¾ points.

The manner in which the market went forward yesterday in the face of the large gain in brokers' loans and stiffening rates for bankers' acceptances stimulated bullish enthusiasm and brought a considerable accumulation of overnight buying orders. Although bankers do not believe that the Federal Reserve will permit any large inflow of gold, another $1,000,000 shipment from Canada today helped to restore confidence.

St. Joseph Lead was again heavily bought, rising 3 points to a record price at 89¾, and Johns-Manville moved up 3 points. Some of the coppers rallied, Anaconda and Kennecott gaining 1 to 2 points. International Telephone, American Water Works, Electric Auto Lite, Loose Wiles, Loew's and Real Silk Hosiery gained 1 or 2 points.

Week-end profit taking made its appearance in fair volume, however, depressing Columbia Gas, Purity Bakeries and Mathieson Alkali 2 points and more, and Victor Talking Machine and Sears, Roebuck about a point.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—The cotton market opened steady today at an advance of 2 points to a decline of 3 points. Active months sold a point or two below yesterday's closing quotations in the early trading.

There appeared to be some southern selling and week-end realizing, but it was absorbed by covering and trade and commission house buying on the relatively steady cables.

General quietness remained quiet. Prices steadied up after the initial offerings had been absorbed. The market showed net advances of about 2 to 4 points at the end of the first half hour.

Private cables said there had been continental buying and trade calling supplied by liquidation in Liverpool, but that substantial cloth sales were reported to China. Cotton is on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 177,000 bales against 120,000 last year.

COOLIDGE AIDS PLATE GLASS MAKERS

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

BETTER times are seen ahead for the plate glass makers as a result of President Coolidge's decision to raise the rate of duty an average of 25 per cent. Foreign competition virtually wiped out the industry's profits for the past four years, but the tariff change is sufficiently great to give domestic producers an opportunity to overcome low Euorpean wages in the future.

A leader in the plate glass trade said he expected the greatest benefit to American factories to come from increased volume.

He does not anticipate any immediate increase in prices but believes that a higher rate of operations will put the industry on a more satisfactory footing.

IN 1925 plate glass makers in Belgium became a serious competitive factor. Prices were cut 25 per cent in July of that year and other reductions which followed carried quotations downward about 50 per cent.

The only attempt to advance plate glass prices was made early in 1928. This was not followed by the entire industry and never became effective.

The increase in the tariff granted by the President meets the desires of the industry in virtually every particular. Except for the fact that some modifications have been made in the duties to be charged on certain sizes, the new tariff is almost identical with the schedule asked.

THE rates which go into effect within 30 days increase the duty on sizes not exceeding 384 square inches from 12½ cents to 16 cents a square foot, on sizes between 384 and 720 square inches from 15 cents to 19 cents and on sizes above 720 square inches from 17½ cents to 22 cents.

A rush on the part of jobbers of foreign glass to lay in stocks before the new rates become effective is expected.

Stocks of plate glass companies advanced sharply yesterday. Pittsburgh Plate Glass reached a high of 71 compared with a close of 66 on Thursday. Standard Plate Glass advanced to 7½ from a close of 5 on the previous day.

STANDARD Plate Glass has been especially hard hit in recent years. In the first nine months of 1928 it lost $346,564. In 1927 the loss was $517,580 while a profit of $79,605 or $4.28 a share on the prior preference stock was shown in 1926.

The company was compelled to omit dividends on the 7 per cent preferred in August, 1925, and on the 7 per cent prior preference stock in April, 1927.

It will be particularly desirable for Standard to make a good showing in earnings in the present years. Its $3,000,000 of 6 per cent notes mature on March 1, 1930. The current financial position is good but it will be necessary to refund this issue at maturity. This would be difficult if the record of operating losses should continue.

THE Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company has weathered the storm in excellent shape. This has been made possible partly by the installation of more modern equipment and partly by the fact that good profits were shown from other lines of business such as the production of paints, varnishes, cement and chemicals.

The company has no funded debt or preferred stock. It continued to pay the regular dividends of 8 per cent annually on the common stock but discontinued paying extra dividends of 5 per cent February and October of each year. The last extra was paid in February, 1927.

IN PLACE of the extra cash dividends in 1928, a stock dividend of 10 per cent was paid on December 1. In October the old $100 par stock was split into $25 par stock on a four-for-one basis.

In 1927 Pittsburgh Plate earned $6,430,356 or $13.07 a share compared with $10,016,948 or $20.36 a share in 1926.

Pershing's Cousin Anti-British Riot Leader

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—(AP.)—George Pershing, 23-year-old second cousin of Gen. John J. Pershing, was the leader of a demonstration before the British consulate last Thursday which was broken up by police, according to the New York World today.

Young Pershing is a field organizer for the All-American Anti-Imperialistic League of America. The demonstration was in protest against the arrest at Jharia, India, of F. W. Johnston, an American labor agitator. The paper says a policeman dispersing the gathering knocked Pershing to the sidewalk.

Pershing said he became a Communist in 1927 after his release from a two-year sentence in a military prison at San Francisco. He refers to Gen. Pershing as 'my illustrious cousin.'"

NO. 2.

AN ORDINANCE—Authorizing the proper officers of the City of Pittsburgh to enter into an agreement and contract with the South Pittsburgh Water Company for a period terminating December 31, 1938, for fire hydrant service, and providing for the purchase of water by the City of Pittsburgh, and the sale thereof to consumers within the limits of the City of Pittsburgh at city rates, and providing for the payment of the costs thereof.

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same That the proper officers of the City of Pittsburgh be and they are hereby authorized and directed to enter into an agreement and contract with the South Pittsburgh Water Company in the following form, to-wit:

ARTICLES OF AGREEMENT

Made and entered into this ..... day of ....., 192.., by and between the City of Pittsburgh, a municipal corporation of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, party of the first part,

and

South Pittsburgh Water Company, a corporation of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, party of the second part.

Whereas—The South Pittsburgh Water Company supplies water in certain parts of the City of Pittsburgh lying south of the Ohio and Monongahela Rivers; and,

Whereas—The City of Pittsburgh desires to purchase water from the South Pittsburgh Water Company so that it may resell the same to the various consumers of water now or hereafter attached to existing water mains, or to any future extensions constructed by the said South Pittsburgh Water Company within the limits of the City of Pittsburgh; and,

Whereas—The City of Pittsburgh desires to have the South Pittsburgh Water Company render water service to it for certain public uses:

Now, Therefore, This Agreement Witnesseth: That, in consideration of the covenants and agreements herein contained, it is hereby agreed as follows:

The City of Pittsburgh, during the term of this contract, shall purchase from the South Pittsburgh Water Company all water used by the regular consumers of the South Pittsburgh Water Company now or hereafter connected to the water pipes of the said company within the limits of the City of Pittsburgh, the quantities of said water so purchased to be determined by the meters of the South Pittsburgh Water Company located within the limits of the City of Pittsburgh.

The work of reading the meters of said consumers shall be performed by the agents and employes of the South Pittsburgh Water Company, and the South Pittsburgh Water Company shall render to the City of Pittsburgh quarterly statements of such meter readings, together with statements of the amounts which are charged against such consumers based upon the aforesaid meter readings, and upon the schedule of rates now ready to serve charges of the South Pittsburgh Water Company now or hereafter lawfully in force.

The City of Pittsburgh shall have the right to check any and all of said meter readings from time to time, and test any and all of said meters, and, from time to time, to make inspections of the books, records and accounts of the South Pittsburgh Water Company relating to said consumers as may be necessary to fully carry out the provisions of this contract, and to ascertain the correctness of any bill rendered by the South Pittsburgh Water Company to the City of Pittsburgh.

The City of Pittsburgh shall pay to the South Pittsburgh Water Company for all water supplied by it through the service pipes of the various consumers located within the limits of the City of Pittsburgh, and upon the water mains of the South Pittsburgh Water Company, a sum to be determined quarterly upon the following basis:

The sum total of the charges against each consumer of the South Pittsburgh Water Company located on the mains of the South Pittsburgh Water Company within the limits of the City of Pittsburgh, as provided for in this contract, said charge to each of such consumers to be arrived at by application of the schedule of rates and ready to serve charges of the South Pittsburgh Water Company, the payment of said aggregate sum to be made by the City of Pittsburgh to the South Pittsburgh Water Company, less a discount of five per cent (5%), provided said bill is paid within thirty (30) days from the date said bill is rendered by the South Pittsburgh Water Company to the City of Pittsburgh.

The intent of this contract is to create a basis by which all consumers located in the City of Pittsburgh, and supplied from the water works system of the South Pittsburgh Water Company, may pay the same rates for water as are charged by the City of Pittsburgh through the City of Pittsburgh assuming any excess in the charge calculated at the rates of the South Pittsburgh Water Company over the charge when calculated at the rates of the City of Pittsburgh; but this contract does not give to the City of Pittsburgh any control over said consumers, or the operation of the South Pittsburgh Water Company, other than it had or would have had, without the making of this contract, and the South Pittsburgh Water Company shall have the right to continue to regulate and control the delivery of water and the service to such consumers, the same as to its consumers in any other territory served by it.

The City of Pittsburgh shall be furnished continuously by the South Pittsburgh Water Company all the water required said city from public hydrants, for the extinguishment of fires, for the sprinkling and cleaning of all streets and alleys, and for the flushing of all public sewers, and for any other public purpose, throughout territory now or hereafter supplied by the South Pittsburgh Water Company that now or in the future is within the limits of said city.

Any properly authorized employe of the city is hereby permitted to handle any and all of the public fire hydrants located in the territory covered by this contract, under and by virtue of this agreement, and to take water therefrom at any reasonable time for the purposes hereinbefore described.

The said company shall furnish and place promptly at any and all points designated by the proper officer of the said city, any number of public fire hydrants that may be ordered, together with any and all additional pipe lines, none to be less than six inches (6") in diameter, necessary for supplying said fire hydrants with water, provided, however, that not more than four hundred feet (400') of pipe line is required for the establishment and supplying of each fire hydrant, and that all such fire hydrants so furnished and placed shall be of the present standard, style and make as adopted by the city.

The said company shall, upon written order of the proper officer of the said city, change the location of any of the fire hydrants covered by this agreement, the cost of making such change of location to be paid by said city.

The said company shall keep in good order and repair all fire hydrants heretofore installed, and all the fire hydrants furnished and placed under and by virtue of this agreement in the territory covered hereby, it being understood, however, that the said company is not to be held liable in case of failure to meet the condition provided herein, if the cause shall have been proven to be beyond its control, and it is expressly understood and agreed that in case of any such fire hydrant being in an unserviceable condition, that the said company will, within twenty-four (24) hours after receiving notice of such unserviceable condition of any such fire hydrant, or any number of them, commence the repairs necessary to restore such fire hydrant, or fire hydrants, to the required serviceable condition, the work on such repairs to be prosecuted diligently and continuously until finally completed, and that any and every failure by the said company to do so shall hereby entitle the city to deduct and withhold, forever, from the rental for said fire hydrant service that may be due, or may become due to the said company, an amount equivalent to the quarterly rental of said number of defective fire hydrants.

Said company shall maintain a sufficient volume of water at all times at such public fire hydrants, to supply such fire engines, working to their full capacity, as are ordinarily employed by the city to extinguish fire in the district in which such fire hydrans are located, one engine only to be connected to a fire hydrant.

The City of Pittsburgh shall pay to the South Pittsburgh Water Company thirty-two and fifty one-hundredths ($32.50) dollars per year for each and every fire hydrant heretofore installed, or hereafter furnished and placed and supplied with water, as hereinbefore provided, such rental to be paid quarterly in the months of February, May, August and November of each year.

This contract shall become effective on the first day of January, 1929, subject to the approval thereof by the Public Service Commission of Pennsylvania, and shall terminate December 31, 1938, with the right in each party thereto to terminate this agreement at the end of any calendar quarter prior to December 31, 1938, upon not less than ninety (90) days' notice, in writing served upon the other party hereto, fixing the date of such termination.

It is further understood and agreed that after December 31, 1938, this agreement may be continued in force for another year and so on from year to year, unless terminated sooner in the manner hereinbefore provided.

In case the City of Pittsburgh shall at any time within the term of this contract acquire the ownership of the property or plant of the South Pittsburgh Water Company, then this contract shall thereupon cease and terminate, and this contract shall not be considered or allowed for in any way as an element of value in ascertaining and determining the value of the properties of the South Pittsburgh Water Company.

Nothing in this contract contained shall be construed to interfere with, waive, or in any manner abridge, at the expiration hereof, or of any extension or renewal of this contract, any of the rights, powers or privileges now, or at any future time held or enjoyed by either of the parties hereto, or to operate thereafter to the prejudice of any claims of either of the parties hereto, but all such rights, powers, privileges and claims, whether held now, or hereafter acquired by contract or otherwise, after the expiration of this contract, or of any extension or renewal thereof, shall in no wise be affected or concluded or prejudiced by this contract.

It is hereby understood and agreed that neither the purpose nor intent, nor the obligation of this contract, if and when approved by the Public Service Commission of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, is such as to impair, or in any wise affect the exercise by said commission of any of the powers vested in it by the Public Service Company Law, approved July 26, 1913.

This contract is entered into by the City of Pittsburgh by virtue of Ordinance No. ....., of the City of Pittsburgh, approved the ..... day of ....., 192.., and recorded in Ordinance Book, Volume ..... Page ....., entitled "An ordinance authorizing the proper officers of the City of Pittsburgh to enter into an agreement and contract with the South Pittsburgh Water Company for a period terminating December 31, 1938, for fire hydrant service, and providing for the purchase of water by the City of Pittsburgh, and the sale thereof to consumers within the limits of the City of Pittsburgh at city rates, and providing for the payment of the costs thereof," and by the South Pittsburgh Water Company pursuant to a resolution of its board of directors, duly passed on the ..... day of ....., 192...

In witness whereof, the city has caused its corporate seal to be hereto affixed and these presents to be signed by the Mayor and Director of the Department of Public Works, and the South Pittsburgh Water Company has caused its corporate seal to be hereto affixed, attested by its secretary, and these presents to be signed by its president, the day and year first above written.

BUGS BAER Says

THE war to end war started a new one in the Senate.

Thirty-five Senators went into a huddle and refused to come out.

Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Senator Bingham started a round robin in the middle of the huddle.

The round robin laid an egg.

Senator Bingham picked up the egg.

And ran the wrong way.

The multilateral treaty was finally annexed by a slab-sided score of 85 to 1.

The only man voting against the grain was Senator Blaine.

Senator Blaine is a Wisconsin Republican, subject to change without notice.

Four Democratic Senators were absent. Which agrees thoroughly with the policies of the next administration.

When Senator Grump signed the document he said:

"Well, there goes another beautiful piece of lace for the hope chest."

Senator Squeebo of Indian Territory remarked, as he dashed along the dots on the line:

"I am the gold-star grandmother of the next good-will Ambassador."

Senator Imple, who shares his seat with an investigating committee, was optimistic. He said:

"This multilateral treaty will finish up more lateral than multi."

Senator Lobo also signed the treaty which will make peace compulsory. He said:

"Why not? I borrowed the pen, the ink was free and Borah had the floor."

Senator Dabb was the 82nd man to sign the circular letter. He said:

"I am voting for peace today. Tomorrow I will vote for those 15 cruisers.

"The man who said you cannot blow hot and cold with one breath never drank the stuff they sell in my state."

Most of the Senators who signed the Kellogg-Briand catalogue will also vote for 15 cruisers.

As Senator Whank remarked:

"We have left the Army and joined the Navy."

LAUGH, CLOWN, LAUGH!

"The Bottle, or the Drunkard's Children," by Cruikshank.

PLATE VI.—With no water for the radio battery, dancing was out of the question. So there was nothing to do but go down cellar and play theater, which they did night after night. One word led to another and, of course, there was considerable professional jealousy. The papa was fond of playing heavies, and his realism sometimes got the best of him. This was confusing to the wife and mother, as you will see in Plate VII. of Monday's issue.

New Order May Wreck Training Camp System

Without a word of warning to anybody, corps area commanders throughout the country have been ordered to turn over to the organized reserves the conduct of the citizens' military training camps for 1929.

If this order is carried out, it will not only greatly reduce the efficiency of the training to be given at the 1929 camps, but it may wreck this whole splendid system of training with the colors under which thousands of young Americans volunteer every year.

Hitherto the War Department has regarded the conduct of these camps as one of the most important duties of the regular Army in time of peace. Commanders and instructors and demonstrating troops for these camps have been selected with the greatest care. And the diligence and distinction with which they have performed their duties are chiefly responsible for the extraordinary success of these camps to date.

Fathers and mothers north, east, south and west encourage their sons to volunteer for this training because of the confidence that has been built up in the administration of these camps by the regular Army.

Good food, good medical care, good athletic instruction, good training in "the school of the soldier" have been provided because the most experienced officers and men of the regular Army were entrusted with the administration of these camps.

Now it is proposed to supplant at these camps experienced commanders, experienced instructors, of the regular Army, with the less experienced officers of the reserves. Not because the regular Army is not ready to go forward with this training. Not because the fathers and mothers of the young men who volunteer for this training are not eager for their sons to be trained by the regular Army. Not because Congress has not appropriated sufficient money for the regular Army to continue its control of these camps.

The reason, and the only reason, for the extraordinary ...rning these camps over to the organized reserves ap...o be the greedy ambition of a few politicians and pub... seekers to get more troops for reserve officers to command and ultimately to speed up promotion in the reserve corps.

In other words the lobby which the politically minded members of the organized reserves are building up in the War Department seems to be bent upon sacrificing the citizens military training camps on the altar of a few reserve politicians in khaki.

If President Coolidge and Secretary Davis will investigate the circumstances under which this amazing order was issued, they will find:

First: Commanders of last year's training camps were not consulted.

Second: Corps area commanders were given no opportunity to express their views.

Third: The general staff, whose business it is to study such matters carefully, was apparently completely ignored.

Fourth: Even the recommendation of the chief of staff was either not requested or set aside.

This whole scheme appears to have been hatched in the office of a civilian subordinate in the War Department and railroaded through the department without the whole truth about its real purpose and ultimate effect reaching high authority.

There is a place in the military establishment for the organized reserves. They ought to be given a larger appropriation for training every year. They ought, however, to mind their own business and under no circumstances should they or their representative in the War Department be permitted to wreck the citizens' military training camps in order to gratify the inordinate ambition of a few khaki-clad politicians in the organized reserves.

German Peace Plan

Everything Helps.

The Germans, anxious to prove their peaceful disposition, offered very few "soldier" toys last Christmas.

But we cannot do away so easily with interest in fighting. German toy shops sell the next best thing—knights in armor and Indians with tomahawks. To change the human race you must change the human brain, changing toys, or laws, won't do it.

That would be safer for Germany than to repudiate bonds held by France, England and Italy. Those countries might attack Germany to collect the money. This country never would. Little American bond holders would thoughtfully digest their loss. That would end it.

If Mr. Gilbert can arrange for American financiers to pay cash for German bonds, with a good profit for American high finance, Germany will be able to say, "If the worst comes to the worst, we can safely repudiate the whole deal as coercive, unjust and not binding."

Wanted, a Slow Car

For Father to Control.

Almost any good car, high priced or low priced, can do 60 miles an hour. Some guarantee 100 miles per hour. All interesting, for the whole world, America especially, is in a hurry.

But what manufacturer will set the minds of fathers and mothers at rest by advertising an automobile the speed of which can be regulated to suit the father when he sends out his children, one of them driving?

Many a man would feel better if he knew that his children in these "Whoopee" days could not drive his car faster than 30 miles an hour. Some simple device might arrange that, full speed to be restored at the owner's option.

Tales That Are Told

Perfection

BIGHEAD, the dramatic critic, was one of those men who think a critic isn't earning his salary if he doesn't "give it to 'em hot." His talent for abuse was immense and no actor could please him.

His friends liked to tease him by heaping compliments on stars who regularly earned his wholesale disapproval.

"Hello, old boy!" said one of them at the club. "Just been to 'The Rocking Horse.' Splendid show, isn't it? What you chaps call an 'All-Star Cast.' What?"

"Stars!" snorted Bighead, contemptuously. "There's not a capable actor or actress in the lot."

"Well, look here," said the friend. "Whom do you consider a finished actor?"

"A dead one," said Bighead, promptly.

His Mistake

THE landlady was carving the skinny three-pound chicken, while a dozen hungry boarders sat around the table eyeing it anxiously.

In quick succession she asked each boarder which part of the fowl he would prefer. Ten called for a leg.

Mrs. Shinem dropped her knife and asked, indignantly: "What do you think this is, a centipede?"

Only one boarder replied. He had been served, and said softly: "No, ma'am; I thought it was a giraffe by the piece of neck I've got."

She Didn't Care

THE amateur dramatists were rehearsing scenes in their forthcoming production.

At a certain stage in the proceedings Mrs. Greene was required to kiss Mr. Gage, and just as they had arrived at this particular incident Mrs. Gage appeared.

"Oh," exclaimed Mrs. Greene, "I do hope, dear, you don't mind me embracing your husband like this?"

"Not at all," was the icy reply. "I don't mind in the least—if he doesn't."

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

THE real tough eggs usually ain't so tough when they get into court without their guns. They're anxious to make a good impression on the jury, and their lawyers have drilled them on how to look meek and innocent.

But once in a while a bandit is brought back from the pen where he's waiting to be bumped off to testify at the trial of some other thug and then the boy that's gone up and don't expect to get out has a good time in court. One of them called a New York judge all kinds of names and then lit in on the lawyers.

The prosecutor says to him, "You admit you are a bandit and a safeblower and a yegg and a murderer and a thief and a rascal, don't you?"

"Sure I do. It's been proved."

"Do you mind telling us what made you choose this way of life?"

"Well, to tell you the truth," he said with a twinkle in his eye, "it was either that or be a lawyer, and so, of course, I did the best I could."

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

ONCE I looked on a dead face.

For me, all life had centered about that face.

We had had 21 years together—sweet days of babyhood—dear, foolish years of childhood—bright adventuring years of young manhood. Then he had gone his way and I was left alone.

When I looked at that face and thought that we would never have any more years together I did not see how I could stand it.

Then there came flooding over me, in a bitter tide, the memory of all the petty, unkind things I had done to that loved one, the times I had failed or hurt him—the spoiled moments.

And my grief as I thought of those moments, was infinitely greater than my grief over the lost years. I knew that I could have faced the empty years bravely if I had never marred the moments.

And suddenly I saw that it is not the quantity of love that counts, but the quality.

Not the time we spend together, but the use we make of that time—

We may spend many years in the closest relationship yet never glimpse the heights and depths of love.

It is better to have loved perfectly for one minute than to have loved carelessly for a long lifetime.

We give such patient service to manual labor, exhausting ourselves in delicate detail—but in that greatest service of love we are so negligent.

We procrastinate—putting off an expression of our devotion, thinking of all the tomorrows we will have together.

We fall into shabby habits, being so sure that we own each other that we no longer need to exercise "company manners."

So time drifts by and our hearts go hungry.

Yet each moment, for all we know, may be love's greatest opportunity. That moment, which we have filled with indifferences or actual unkindness might have held love's greatest heed or most poignant response. And that moment will not come again.

I learned this truth in that terrible hour when I looked on that dear dead face. I learned it too late.

Try to learn before it is too late.

Stop thinking of the quantity of love you may have—the years you may spend together.

Think rather of the quality of your love, giving all the beauty and tenderness that lies in you to each opportunity for expression.

Give that beauty and tenderness NOW!

GREAT TOOL MAKER

By Garrett P. Serviss

THE great and only toolmaker is man. He began more than a million years ago. In order to know human history now one must become familiar with a whole lot of new names describing races, which lived ages before there were any nations or empires or any scribes to record their history. But they made tools, and in their tools they have told their own story.

Mildred Fairchild and Dr. Hornell Hart, of Bryn Mawr College, have put their heads together to collect in the Scientific Monthly, the principal facts now known about this million years of toolmaking. It is a tale that runs on a slightly upsloping level for a million years and then suddenly leaps straight up into the clouds of wonder. It turns miraculous. What was it, one asks oneself, that inspired this plodding race of two-legged mammals some five or six thousand years ago to start out to become almost as gods in their mechanics?

Some may think twice of the fact that this occurred about the traditional date of the creation of Adam. Was the writer of Genesis confusing a fast-developed inspiration with an instantaneous creation?

Who were the inhabitants of "the land of Nod?" (See Genesis, Chap. IV.) What is the origin and meaning of the old legends about "the pre-Adamites?" Consider Peyreira's theory that there were men before Adam, but because they were worthless God created Adam with a spiritual nature.

Certainly some explanation is needed of the fact that from 1,500,000 B. C., until 15,000 B. C., the slope of human efficiency in toolmaking was but just perceptible, but that it then rose swiftly to culminate soon in a skyward flight. Did the greatest genius the world has ever known suddenly appear, and give his race an immortal impulse, only to sink nameless himself into oblivion?

The Cromerians, the Chelleans, the Acheuleans, the Aurignacians, the Solutreans, the Magdalenans, shaped their flint tools ever a little finer during ten thousand slow centuries. Then the Mesolithics and the Neolithics began to see a light; then the copper age and the bronze age came and the development of the application of power in tool driving; then, lo! the leap was taken, and human mechanical skill and knowledge shot up like the equatorial sun. It has not ceased with taking man bodily into the sky and under the sea, and with making him master of energies that transmit his voice and his vision round the world. Every sensitive mind thrills in the belief that these marvels are but beginning.

Perhaps we are blinded by the light we live in. Because of that we do not see that our progress since this century opened is as much a miracle as was the upward leap that occurred with the birth of recorded history. What needs explanation, then, is the long, slow stages of accumulation of potential knowledge and ability, together with the explosive suddenness with which the kinetic energy is developed.

Mankind has gained power because its inspiration is accelerative. A body falling under gravity starts slowly, almost reluctantly. But its velocity gains in every successive second. In the first second it will fall 16 feet, but in the fiftieth second 1,584 feet. This is a constant acceleration, however, which human progress has not shown. On the contrary, the human acceleration, very slight at first, has vastly increased, but not at a constant rate per unit of time.

But we get something more like the gravitation law if we start far enough away. A body starting from the distance of the fixed stars would have but an infinitesimal speed under the earth's gravitation and would gain but little until quite near the earth, when its velocity would rapidly approach that of surface gravity. So mankind, starting far off, has only gained a great velocity of progress when apparently close to its goal. But does that mean that its career is nearly ended? Is it about to expire in excess of splendor? Surely not right away.

Bible Passages

Hate

(John 15; 18-27.)

IF the world hate you, ye know that it hated me before it hated you.

If ye were of the world, the world would love his own: but because ye are not of the world, but I have chosen you out of the world, therefore the world hateth you.

Remember the word that I said unto you, The servant is not greater than his lord. If they have persecuted me, they will also persecute you; if they have kept my saying, they will keep your's also.

But all these things will they do unto you for my name's sake, because they know not him that sent me.

If I had not come and spoken unto them, they had not had sin: but now they have no cloak for their sin.

He that hateth me hateth my Father also.

If I had not done among them the works which none other man did, they had not had sin: but now have they both seen and hated both me and my Father.

But this cometh to pass, that the word might be fulfilled that is written in their law. They hated me without a cause.

But when the Comforter is come, whom I will send unto you from the Father, even the Spirit of truth, which proceedeth from the Father, he shall testify of me:

And ye also shall bear witness, because ye have been with me from the beginning.

WHITE lilies glimmer through the gloom
Where many starry candles flare,
Fair fragrance fills the lofty room
Where two hearts' joy is like a prayer.

The organ tones are soft and sweet
As Beauty paces down the aisle.
And all life's lesser dreams retreat
Before the rapture of her smile.

Before her wait the unknown years,
But she will greet them, unafraid,
Find gain in loss and hopes through tears;
For such as she the world was made.

Through perfumed twilight, candle-starred,
The measures of the organ roll;
While lilies gleam, may heaven guard
The greater whiteness of her soul.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—Midtown Manhattan is becoming stuffed, like the Strassbourg goose, with skyscrapers. A mere casual inspection of the skyline from the sidewalk develops a nice fat neckache. This new area of topless towers is confined largely to what is known as the Grand Central district.

One of those sharks for statistics discovers the tenants alone in the cloud-piercing strip outnumber the combined population of Cheyenne, Brownsville, Reno, Emporia and Albuquerque. In actual figures more than 60,000 people. The Woolworth Building down town houses 10,000.

New York's psychology is that of the small town. Just as a new depot will spruce up the north end of Main street, so has the Grand Central Station inspired the mighty building rush about it. Shortly the tallest building in the world—the Reynolds—will be finished at Lexington avenue and Forty-second street.

It will stand 67 stories and 808 feet above the street level. The new Grand Central Building spanning Park avenue is another whopper, and the Chanin Building, a stone's throw away, rises to 52 stories. Next door west to the Hotel Belmont is another 53-storied affair nearly completed.

Alarmists are crying the city is being overbuilt and what-will-we-do? Yet a 42-story office building a little off the beaten path in the same neighborhood was recently filled two weeks after it was opened. And at the moment there is an unsatisfied demand for office space.

The big problem is traffic congestion. Only the floating hotel population is able to live in the Grand Central district. The actual office workers must live from five to 30 miles away, and as all arrive and depart at the same time, the result is a brow-wrinkler.

There are, for instance, three blocks on Forty-second street where it has been found 10,000 may be accommodated on the sidewalks comfortably. Yet twice daily more than 50,000 people crowd into the same space. There is an actual record of street traffic being held up 58 minutes in this zone. Two business hours and hundreds of thousands are lost daily and nothing can be done.

A popular cocktail diversion of the moment is composed of equal parts tomato juice and gin. The juice of the tomato is reputed to frustrate next morning's parade of "The Brooklyn boys" over the transom. Broadway seizes upon any panacea for the day after throb with a fervor. A few months ago it was kraut juice.

The vampire role has been supplanted by a fetching quality of wistfulness—O, so shy! In one of the cafes the other evening the 1927 model of cobra woman with a record of philandering that made tabloid editors dance in the street appeared without a single touch of make-up. She wore no jewels and was otherwise inconspicuous. Once or twice only did she look up at her escort and then demurely with a sad sweet smile. She was the first lady, incidentally, to parade the avenue with a marmoset on her shoulder several years ago. She also sported the first anklet watch. And now she's gone completely Lillian Gish-ish.

RIGHT ANGLES

By Alexander Cairns

SOME bad things make men good.

The man who has slipped his moorings and drifted away into the Bill Sikes game has sympathy and understanding for some other poor unfortunate whose experience tallies with his.

The man who has misstepped in business under a temptation that weighed like a mountain, comes with words of buoyancy to his friend who has been caught in the toils of the same mistake.

They call that "en-rapport." The word atonement is good. Two souls burned with the same faggot, two hearts pierced with the same stiletto.

Indeed, without such slips and such sympathy there would be a dearth of kindliness in the world.

The daughter of your neighbor stars in a Reno drama and you pull your skirts about you in dread of contamination. Your tongue is set on a swivel and spins its innuendo like the whirling white mice in the bird store window.

Comes a day when your own pink-and-pretty bunch of daughterhood woos, weds and rues. Then marital infelicity reaches its tether's end and publicity, with her tongue in her cheek, hawks the story in the streets.

Then you reel off glibly a thousand justifications for the denouement of your daughter's marital drama.

Truth has come home!

Is this, then, a blanket to cover all misdemeanor, a brush to whitewash every crime? Not at all. But it is a reminder. Like Socrates, each of us carries in his heart the possibility of every crime.

And it is a suggestion that the statute books carry no prohibition against sympathy for sinners.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

AS YOU grow older do you grow more irritable?

You are easily disturbed and you don't try to control your anger.

It is not as easy as it used to be to check your impulses to be sarcastic and belligerent and you are getting cranky.

To avoid everything that includes hard work is your big desire.

You know that you are slipping physically and you become more snappish and somehow you don't care if you are.

You are fast losing your desire to be pleasing to your associates.

Sometimes you are surprised to note how far this indifference to the good opinion of others has carried you.

People in general do not interest you as they formerly did.

It is easier to censure than to praise.

In other words, you are allowing yourself to do the things that will soon leave you practically friendless.

You are going to lose your business, and if working for another you will doubtless lose your job.

It is easy to procure good-natured employes, so you may find that your ill-nature has worked you out of a job.
